

WALL STREET BRISK RALLY MARKS LATE STOCK TRADE

Persistent Strength of Utilities and Short-Covering Bring Change and Cuts Down Losses.

PHILADELPHIA CO.
ADVANCES SHARPLY

Only Regular U. S. Steel Dividends—Net Income for Year $20,300,000 Greater Than 1927.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Brought by persistent strength of the utilities and short covering, the stock market rallied briskly in the last hour of trading today, after a morning of trading at the greater part of the session. Dozens of issues of 2 to 6 points were recovered and a handful of issues recorded net gains of 5 to a maximum of 14 1/2 points in Philadelphia company. U. S. Steel mounted early 7 points to 28 1/2, but quickly fell to 18 1/2.

Tully Average Up 4 Points.

The average of 20 utilities rose 1 1/2 points, 29 rails fell 7 point and 10 industrials dropped 7 point.

Full money mounted above 4 percent for the first time in nearly two weeks as loans were called in preparation for the month-end.

The rate, however, was not to go higher before the week-end.

Conflicting reports from London indicated that the gold market had been taken for New York, but the opinion gained in Wall street that the bank of England would soon act to prevent further losses. An increase in the Bank of England's discount rate is regarded as likely this week.

The overnight business news was largely favorable, including several railroad earnings reports, the Pennsylvania reporting a record net income for 1928. Inland steel increased its annual dividend from $2.50 to $3.50.

The steel industry was a step of about 3 points in U. S. Steel. Directors met this afternoon, and Wall street has grown skeptical over the rumors of an extra stock dividend, believing that such action, if contemplated, would probably be taken later in the year.

Only the regular dividends were announced after the close of market. Improved conditions in the steel industry were reflected in the United States Steel Corporation report for the fourth quarter of 1928 showing earnings of $53,156,679 after taxes, expenses and interest on bonds of subsidiaries as compared with $52,148,476 in the third quarter and $31,247,529 in the fourth quarter of 1927. Earnings for the fourth quarter were equal to $2.43 per share of common stock as compared with $2.21 per share for the preceding quarter and $1.95 per share for the fourth quarter of 1927. Earnings for the year are equal to $18.61 per share of common against $18.11 per share in 1927.

Some of Gains.

Philadelphia company mounted 8 1/2 points, while Commonwealth Power, American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, and Detroit Edison rose 3 to 7 1/2 points to new tops. Commercial solvents jumped more than 8 points to a new top, on an excellent fourth quarter earnings report, but closed up 2 1/2 net.

Wright Aero, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville and Mexican S-A-Bond ranged down 6 to 9 points. While American Telephone, General Motors (old), Westinghouse, Alcoa, Sears Roebuck and others yielded 2 points and more. Westinghouse closed with net gain of 2 1/2 points.

Shorts began to cover freely in final hour when a number of issues responded to large scale buying. St. Joseph Lead rallied 8 points from its low level and International Nickel and Johns-Manville each 6 points. Burroughs adding Machine jumped 9 1/2. United Fruit 6 1/2. Allis-Chalmers 10 and Delaware and Hudson 9. American Radiator after soaring to 211 dropped to 199 1/2 and finished at 201 1/2. Pressure was still exerted against a number of well known stocks. The closing was irregular.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney Among Those Starting New Fad at Palm Beach.

By the Associated Press.
PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29.—Palm Beach experienced something new when a group of feminine leaders of the exclusive winter colony attended a public luncheon at the beach pajamas yesterday. The party, clothed in fashion's latest beach lounging attire, motored from their morning swim at the bath and tennis club to a restaurant in the heart of the business section. Only this season have feminine bathers been permitted to appear on the beaches and board walks without long hose. Among those at the luncheon were Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, who wore pajamas; Mrs. James Forrester and Mrs. Philip Barry Leslie, whose attire was vari-colored.

WOMAN GIVES AGED REALTY MAN $25,000 IN STAGE MONEY

She Gets One to 10 Years in Prison—Deception Discovered When Safety Box Is Opened.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—Convicted of paying a near-sighted real estate dealer $25,000 in stage money for a parcel of land, Mrs. Mary Fitman McCabe yesterday was sentenced to serve from one to 10 years in the State penitentiary. Frederick De Jonge, 83 years old, stooped and feeble, testified that he had been deceived by McCabe, then Miss Fitman, who had taken advantage of his failing eyesight to give him the roll of stage money. It was placed in a safety deposit vault, and the deception was not discovered until he opened the box in the presence of bank officers.

CAPT. GEORGE FRIED TO VISIT SEVERAL AMERICAN CITIES

Harry Manning in Charge of Recruiting Lifeline to Relief Him in America.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Capt. George Fried, hero of the Florida and Antioch rescues, is to visit several large American cities in reply to demands that other parts of the country get an opportunity to see the captain of the liner America.

This announcement was made today by George S. Mabee, assistant general manager of the United States Lines, who said that the trip would be made by order of the Shipping Board.

During Capt. Fried's absence the America will be commanded by Harry Manning, the 32-year-old officer in charge of the lifeline which last week saved the 22 men of the Italian freighter Florida.

The America will sail tomorrow with Manning as acting captain.

Mabee told of the proposed tour by Capt. Fried at a luncheon given at the Bankers' Club in honor of Fried and Manning.

HOOVER AND SMITH MEET IN FLORIDA, TALK OF CAMPAIGN

President-Elect and Former Opponent Spend 25 Minutes Together at Belle Isle Estate.

PLANS FOR VISIT MADE BY RASKOB

Ex-Governor Wears Brown Derby and Formal Garb—Wishes Next Executive Good Luck.

By the Associated Press.
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29.—President-elect Hoover and former Gov. Smith of New York spent 25 minutes together today at the Hoover vacation home on Belle Isle, mostly reminiscing about events in the spectacular campaign last fall in which they were the principals.

Wearing his celebrated brown derby and formal morning clothes, the Democratic standard bearer of 1928 reached Belle Isle promptly at 11 a. m. the hour for his appointment with his victorious opponent. His inevitable cigar was very much in evidence as he stepped from the car in which he had driven from the Miami Biltmore Hotel at Coral Gables.

Accompanying the former Governor were John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and William F. Kenney, lifelong friend of Smith, who led the way to the door of the stateroom, where he and his companions were greeted by Lawrence Richey, secretary to Hoover.

Hoover greets his guests. The President-elect, in white trousers and shoes and double-breasted blue serge coat, stood just within the doorway and shook hands first with his late opponent, and then with the two others. The visitors were made comfortable in two large easy chairs and the President-elect and the Democratic leader most of the talking.

Gov. Smith said afterwards that he had congratulated Hoover and wished him luck. "And I meant it," he added, emphasizing each word. "We talked about some of the funny things that happened during the campaign," the former Governor went on, explaining that Hoover related some of his own experiences that gave him amusement and that he did likewise.

"Mr. Hoover looked well," he said.

This was the first talk the late opponents ever had had although they had met once before, in 1921, when they were speakers from the same platform in New York City.

Decides Not to Be Interviewed.

The former Governor when leaving the house agreed to go to the executive's offices a couple of hundred yards away to talk with the newspaper correspondents, who are here with the President-elect, but before he reached there he changed his mind.

Smith drove directly back to Coral Gables for breakfast, explaining that he had come away from his hotel without the morning meal in order to be on time for his call. Raskob had arranged the trip by telephone last night.

After Hoover had made a public statement saying he would be glad if the Democratic leader could find time to call.

For the first time since his arrival in Greater Miami last Sunday, Smith's car was unaccompanied by a motor cycle police detail. It crossed the Venetian Causeway leading to Belle Isle at rather high speed and entered the J. C. Penney estate by a little used entrance.

Few of the hundred or more persons gathered in automobiles along the highway realized that the former Governor had arrived until after his car was within the grounds.

Rain and Chilly Wind.

There was a drizzle of rain as the ex-Governor arrived, and a rather stiff northerly wind made it somewhat uncomfortable.

By direction of Hoover, both photographers and all newspapermen, except two, were barred from the grounds immediately around the house.

Just before Smith and his party arrived, R. L. McKinney, publisher of the Macon News, conferred with the President-elect. Leaving the house two minutes before 11, McKinney decided to wait in his automobile with his family to see the Democratic leader enter the house.

"Down in our State," he said, "we are the fellows who shot more holes in Smith and Tammany than anyone else."

The greeting between Hoover and Smith was described as a natural one, without reserve on the part of either.

"How do you do, Mr. President?"

URGES LAMBERT TO RECONSIDER HIS RESIGNATION

Chairman Salisbury of Airport Commission "Feels That Understanding Can Be Reached."

MAJOR OBJECTS TO CITY'S LACK OF PLAN

Sets Forth Views in Letter—Too Brilliant Lighting and Dangerous Runways Points at Issue.

Replying to Maj. Albert Bond Lambert's resignation as chairman of the Technical Committee of the $2,000,000 Municipal Airport, Director of Public Welfare Salisbury, chairman of the Airport Commission, addressed a letter to Lambert today, asking him to reconsider his action.

Salisbury, in his letter, states, "I am not ready to admit that I quite understand your procedure in this matter. I feel that an understanding could be reached if we talked the matter over and I will appreciate a call from you for this purpose."

Lambert, in a letter to Salisbury yesterday, states that he is resigning from the Technical Committee because the city administration has neglected to employ the professional services of an airport engineer in formulating a general plan, which he considers necessary to avoid mistakes and hold the cost within the $2,000,000 authorized under the airport bond issue.

$100,000 Lighting Plan Assailed.

The Technical Committee, formed to act in an advisory capacity, included, besides Lambert, Russell Shaw, Phil Love and T. Preston Sultan, airport designers, and Maj. C. R. Vassall, commander of the National Guard air unit. It is known that the members of the committee were not in accord with the $100,000 lighting program for the field, which was prepared by George Heath, city lighting engineer. Members of the committee are reported to have estimated the cost of lighting the field at $40,000, and to have stated that a more elaborate program would defeat the purpose for which the light was intended, in that pilots would be blinded by too brilliant illumination in making night landings.

The Technical Committee is also said to have considered that the plans for criss-cross runways, prepared by city engineers, to be installed because of the danger of collisions due to the lack of number of students taking off and landing on training flights. A plan prepared by one member of the Technical Committee, placing the runways at the edge of the field, is said to have been discarded by the city engineers.

"Aviation will furnish St. Louis with its next great industrial development," Maj. Lambert said in his letter.

Lambert's Letter.

After narrating the history of the campaign for a municipal airport, he continued:

"To provide St. Louis with a great municipal airport, the city administration should readily bear in mind that airport designing, airport engineering and airport construction opens up the latest field of modern engineering, it embraces and includes the art and skill of engineering, plus a technical knowledge specifically pertinent to aeronautics."

"There is involved the combined engineering techniques of topographical survey, grading, water sheds, water supply, sewage, specialized construction and of great importance, specialized drainage in relation to surfacing and the landing of five-ton planes at 50 miles per hour."

"Only a technically qualified expert can design and lay out an airport to meet the conditions and requirements of the Department of Commerce and to serve the purpose for which it is intended."

"Any substitute action taken in good faith or in the interests of local economy will result in economic loss and failure of purpose. Serious mistakes have been made by other cities by which St. Louis can profit."

No Engineer Engaged.

"The city administration has not, as far as I know, taken any steps to engage or employ the professional services of an airport engineer in formulating a general plan, specifications and cost of the entire project, or to place at the disposal of various city departments expert advice in designing such vital items as drainage and lighting."

"Airport drainage and lighting are peculiarly pertinent to the safety of the airport."

REBELS HOLD ONE SPANISH CITY; REVOLT IN OTHER TOWNS PUT DOWN

MOTHER-IN-LAW OF TWO PEERS GETS 15 MONTHS

Mrs. Kate Merrick, London Night Club Keeper, Convicted of Bribery and Conspiracy.

JUST RELEASED FROM JAIL TERM

Police Sergeant Gets 18 Months for Taking Bribes to Permit Illegal Sale of Liquor.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Mrs. Kate Merrick, mother-in-law of two Peers and prominent as a keeper of a night club, was sentenced to 15 months' imprisonment at hard labor today on charges of bribery and conspiracy.

Luigi Achille Ribuffi, restaurant manager who was accused with Mrs. Merrick, also was sentenced to 15 months' hard labor, while George Goddard, a former Police Sergeant, who was charged with accepting bribes from the other defendants to permit the illegal sale of liquor, was sentenced to 15 months' hard labor, was fined $10,000 and was ordered to pay the costs of the prosecution.

All three were found guilty after a trial in the Old Bailey Court.

Mrs. Merrick only recently was released from jail after serving a minor term for selling liquor during prohibited hours.

Goddard, on a salary of $20 a week, had accumulated $90,000 in 10 years. He testified that from 1915 until last year he made between $35,000 and $40,000 in betting. His counsel also said the policeman had made $50,000 in a game publishing business and $22,500 in selling candy at Wembley exhibitions.

Other testimony was that bank notes drawn from Mrs. Merrick's account had been found in Goddard's possession.

POPE AND PREMIER DISCUSS TERMS THROUGH INTERMEDIARY

ROME, Jan. 29.—Pope Pius and Premier Mussolini are now in direct contact for settlement of the Roman question through Ernesto Pacelli, advocate, who daily visits first one and then the other.

Presenting to each the other's views and taking back whatever answer is made. All this negotiation leads to the inference here that the conversations are nearing an end and that there may be shortly some official announcement or some manifestation that an accord has been reached between the Pope and the Premier.

The position of intermediary has been entrusted exclusively to Pacelli. He is the brother of Mr. Pacelli, Papal Nuncio in Berlin.

HUGHES JOINS ROCKEFELLER

Retained as Counsel in Fight to Oust Stewart.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The proxy committee managing the fight of John D. Rockefeller Jr. to oust Col. Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, announced that it had retained Charles Evans Hughes, as general counsel.

The committee also said that Henry H. Hornbrook of Indianapolis had been retained as counsel for the proxy committee in Indiana. Statements published today to the effect that the Rockefeller group already had obtained proxies for 45 per cent of the stock in preparation for the annual meeting March 7 were said to be incorrect. Although the committee expects to have at least that amount it was said that no announcement was being made as to the voting strength now in hand.

Cut of 1 Cent in Gasoline Price.

A reduction of 1 cent a gallon in the retail tank wagon price of gasoline has been announced by Standard Oil Co. officials. The price is now 15.9 cents a gallon. There will be no change in the service station price of 16.5 cents. Other companies in the city have adjusted their prices to conform with those of the Standard Oil Co.

SHORT IN ACCOUNTS WITH STATE, ENDS LIFE

Robert A. Dickinson of Labor Bureau Kills Self at Home.

Robert A. Dickinson, 47 years old, an inspector in the local office of the Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Inspection until Jan. 5, when he confessed a shortage in his accounts, shot and killed himself this afternoon in the living room of his home at 3023 1/2 Pennsylvania avenue.

In the adjoining dining room, at the time, were seated his wife, Anna, and his superior in the State Department, M. H. McFarland, who had come to talk with him about restitution.

"Wait here a minute and I'll get the money for you," Dickinson said, according to his wife and McFarland. He stepped into the living room, out of sight, and a moment later a shot was heard. He was found unconscious on the floor with a pistol beside him. He died on the way to City Hospital.

McFarland told police that Dickinson had collected inspection fees at factories in the course of his duties and had failed to turn about $25 in at the department's office, 1225 Pine street. After he confessed, a series of conferences were held between McFarland, Dickinson and State Labor Commissioner Roy Hinkle, at which it was agreed the inspector would make restitution and prosecution would be withheld.

McFarland related that he went to Dickinson's home today to inquire what arrangements he had made to cover the shortage. He was there but a few minutes when Dickinson killed himself.

LEADERS WILL BE PUNISHED, SAYS PRIMO DE RIVERA

Widespread Rebellion Was to Have Become Active Last Midnight, He Tells National Assembly.

CANNON IN STREET AT CIUDAD REAL

Cavalry and Infantry Ordered From Madrid to Deal With Artillery Force in Control of Place.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Jan. 29.—Premier Primo de Rivera informed the National Assembly today that the Government had suppressed a rebellion which had been planned for midnight throughout Spain.

He stated that the subversive movement had been completely frustrated and that the entire country was quiet, except in the Province of Ciudad Real, where a regiment of field artillery had mutinied and placed its guns in the streets of the provincial capital.

The Premier added that stern measures would be taken against the organizers of the movement but not against soldiers who had blindly followed their leaders.

The session of the National Assembly was extremely tense, as a special meeting of the Cabinet had been held at the Ministry of War this morning and rumors of trouble had spread.

After informing the Assembly that the rebellion had been suppressed, the Premier continued: "The movement has failed everywhere with the exception of Ciudad Real, where the first artillery regiment, garrisoned at that point, rebelled, taking its guns to the streets, occupying the main barracks of the civil guards, placing cannon in the avenues and roads and detaining all trains coming into and leaving the city."

"The Government now has no more news from Ciudad Real, but it is in possession of the assurance of the complete re-establishment of normal conditions throughout the rest of Spain."

Several squadrons of cavalry left Alcaldia this afternoon to deal with the rebellious forces at Ciudad Real. A regiment of infantry also set out for the scene from Madrid.

A large force of the civil guard, heavily armed, also was proceeding toward Ciudad Real in motor buses.

While these military advances were being made, a squadron of airplanes flew over the rebel division, dropping proclamations calling on them to surrender and promising that only the leaders would be punished.

Revolt Widespread, According to Madrid Telegram.

By the Associated Press.
MADRID, Jan. 29.—Advises received here today indicate that revolutionary activities have broken out in many parts of Spain among both soldiers and civilians.

From the meager advice received here, it would appear that the subversive movement developed all along the southern and eastern coast of Spain touching the Mediterranean, and that the main effort, presumably Barcelona, Valencia, Cartagena and Malaga, were affected. So far as could be determined, the movement appeared also to have developed around Algeiras and in the province of Cadix as far north as Tráfic.

Advises also indicated that there was a little trouble in Madrid, but how serious (this was could not be determined. So far as known Premier Primo de Rivera was still in Madrid. He is recovering from an attack of influenza.

King Alfonso has been on a hunting trip near Cordova. When the King's absence and the Premier's illness have served as an incentive for the outbreak of the reported subversive movement by means to be seen.

Dictator de Rivera Has Not Seen Several Minor Revolts.

Sept. 12, 1923, Gen. Primo de Rivera as leader of a military coup d'etat took over the reins of government in Spain and set up a directory which is now the governing body in that country.

FOR PRISONERS WOULDN'T TALK

SHINGTON, Jan. 29.—One most unusual benefit per-families of four men now in

There was no public announce-

WELLS READY FOR TWO SLAYERS, WHO STILL HOPE

Howard R. Yeager and Thomas E. Lowry Nervously Pace Floor on Second Story of City Jail.

DEATH WATCH WILL START TOMORROW

Preparations for Double Execution Put in Place and Tested—Governor Also Rejects Lowry's Plea.

Two nervous young men restlessly pace the floor of the City jail, drawing at countless cigarettes and uttering the concrete words with the half-smoked stubs.
They count the hours until they are sentenced to hang for murder.

The death watch for Leonard Yeager, who killed an elderly Tennessee woman, and Thomas
E. Lowry, who killed a policeman, will start at 6 a. m. tomorrow. Three sheriffs instead of one will watch over them during the entire 48 hours, but otherwise their mode of life will be unchanged.

The mothers of the two men,
Mrs. Yeager of Clatsop, Ill., and Mrs. Lowry of St. Louis, were permitted an hour in the cell with their sons this afternoon. Under mistaken impression that they could not be permitted to see them because of the "death watch" the women became hyster-cal and were carried from the tier by relatives and jail guards.

Cauffield Denies Plea.
Gov. Cauffield today considered and denied the application of Rowland Johnston, Toledo attorney, formerly an Assistant Circuit Attorney here, who asked for a review for Lowry in order that additional arguments for commutation might be prepared.

The received Father John A. de-vill, jail chaplain, who had urged to the capitol in behalf of the two men, but declined to make a search for a commutation.

For two weeks the two men have been offered the privilege of the kitchen. The food which is served to them is the same that all employees and the "trustworthy" receive, a somewhat better than that of the prisoners.

But the two men have lost desire for food. Although protest to all that come that are confident Gov. Cauffield will commute their sentences to imprisonment, they have lost weight constantly. Neither weighs more than 120 pounds, although he is normally a man of average size.

All Ready for Hangings.
The floors above, on the upper floor of the jail wing, everything is in readiness for double execution. Yesterday's steel trap was set for the two men, and the necessary arrangements were set up and tested.
An improved electrical apparatus has been connected with the levers which open and close the trap doors. It consists of a series of five push buttons in the cell, one of them wired to an electrical motor which in turn will throw the levers. Five men will press the buttons simultaneously, and nobody will know which one springs the trap.

One of the ropes of a special type with long-tapered ends were packed and slung from the steel trap in the ceiling yesterday.
The ropes weighed 170 pounds and were dropped through the doors to test their strength. A test will be made on the eve of execution.

The death warrant for Yeager and Lowry says that "on Friday, the first of February, between the hours of 6 o'clock in the forenoon and 6 o'clock in the afternoon, they were hanged by the neck until dead."
According to custom, Sheriff Strodtman has ordered the execution to take place as soon after 6 a. m.
as possible.

Only the participants in the execution and the essential spectators will be admitted to the chamber. Representatives of the Sheriff's office, the coroner's office and the Police Department, the jail warden and his assistants, the spiritual advisers of Yeager and Lowry, and newspaper reporters will be present. Others will be barred, including relatives and friends of the condemned men and their victims.

For several days Sheriff Strodtman and Jail Warden Primrose have been busy discussing responses. Relatives of Motocycle racer Eugene Lowry, slain by Yeager, were among the applicants for "tickets," but the Sheriff says he has "talked them all out of it."

Problem of Choice Among 769 Babies Faces Judges

Eliminations at Show Sponsored by St. Leo's Parish Well Under Way—Finals Set for Saturday.

Judging the beauty of 769 babies entered in the baby show at St. Leo's parish got under way yesterday afternoon when 115 of the infants, boys and girls between 3 months and 1 year old, appeared at the parish auditorium, Twenty-third and Mulanphy streets.
Health examinations of the babies were held at the auditorium last week.

In groups of nine, the children held in the laps of their mothers surged or yawned or bawled, as each reacted differently to the stimulus furnished by Verne New-comb, director of the show, as he attempted to arouse the infants' interest in their surroundings by holding before them a bright pencil and keeping it out of reach as some of them tried to grasp it. A gentle poke in the ribs was resorted to when all other means failed to provoke a response. Whether laughter or tears followed this mattered much in the final reckoning.

The winners of yesterday's eliminations were Genevieve Ann Dallito, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Dallito, 2609 Howard street, and Jack Waller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theron M. Waller, 2219 Victor street.

Expression, alertness, amiability and appearance were the points which counted in the judging. As Newcomb approached each entrant for the individual trial, Mother strove hurriedly to get Junior in a receptive mood and any indication of a smile on the baby's face was reflected and expanded in hers.

Elders Take It Seriously.
The mothers, and the few fathers present, were much more concerned with what went on than there, the last execution being that of Leon Williams, a Negro who killed a white saloonkeeper in a holdup. Williams was hanged July 17, 1925. A year before, on Jan.

18, 1924, Charles Merritt and Hugh Pinkley were hanged simultaneously for the murder of a policeman in a holdup. There had been no hangings before that since 1907, when a man was executed in the old Court House building.

was the salutation of the former

"How do you do, Governor? It has been a long time since we have

The Democratic leader passed his brown derby to a butler and then was escorted by Hoover to an elevator, with Raskob, Keany and Richey taking seats nearby. As they detailed some of the amusing things that happened to them and more particularly the amusing situations which arose out of some of the peculiar gifts they received, the President-elect chuckled and his former opponent laughed heartily.

BALTIMORE & OHIO

DEAL ON FOR SALE OF CURRAN PRINTING CO.

Stifel-Nicolaus, Brokers, Negotiating for 40-Year-Old Firm at $1,200,000.

Negotiations for the outright purchase of the Con P. Curran Printing Co. by the brokerage firm of Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., for consideration of $1,200,000, were begun yesterday.

Under the plan being discussed, Con P. Curran, who founded the printing company 40 years ago, would become chairman of the board, although he would not retain a stock interest.
The company is owned in its entirety by Curran and his seven children. He has 51 per cent of the stock, and each child has 7 per cent, which he gave them several years ago. The children are John, Potter, Con, Jr., Mrs. Sol-Gross, Mrs. William Gross, Mrs.
Frank Corley and Mrs. John L.
Tierney.

If the purchase is consummated,
the company will be reorganized and its stock listed. The plant is at Eighth and Walnut streets. The company, which has 400 employees, specializes in railroad and commercial printing.

regular. Sales approximated 4-500,000.

The stock market worked higher in a rather quiet opening today.
Commercial Solvents jumped 2 1/2 points in an opening market, and among issues gaining a point or so were Columbia Gas, International Telephone, General Railway Signal and National Surety. C. S. Steel opened nearly a point higher in anticipation of the results of the directors' meeting after the close of the market. There were few transactions as large as 5000 shares.

Utilities were again, heavily bought early, American Power & Light moving up to a new peak.
Gas & Electric, Commonwealth Power and Engineers Public Services made gains of a point or more.

Cash Motors, International Harvester, Borden and Liggett & Myers early moved up about 2 points each. Missouri Pacific gained about a point early, and Gardner Motors was again bought.

Most losses were fractional early,
although International Nickel dropped another point and Mexican Seaboard 2 points.

KIEL TO FILE FOR FOURTH TIME ON BIRTHDAY, FEB. 21

On Three Previous Occasions He Has Been Successful So He Considers It Good Omen.

Henry W. Kiel, former Mayor, said today that he could file his nominal candidacy for the Republican mayoral nomination on Feb.
21, which will be his fifty-eighth birthday.

He filed for the nomination on the same date in each previous race.
In 1913, 1917 and 1921—and in each he was successful. He thinks that to follow this precedent now will be a good omen for a fourth term, and accordingly has disregarded a first impulse to file immediately.

It was learned today that Stephen M. Wagner, who is president of the Board of Education, who had announced some time ago that he would seek the Republican nomination for Mayor, was preparing to withdraw. He had no expectation of organization support.
It is not likely that he will ask his supporters to favor either Miller or Kiel, but he and Kiel are good friends.

Filing time expires Feb. 26.
Two More Commitments for Miller:
Total Now 29.

Two more members of the Republican City Committee have come out for Mayor Miller's candidacy, making the count 29 for Miller, 29 for former Mayor Kiel and seven in doubt, some of whom likely will be for Kiel. The two are William Batavia of the Fifth Ward and William G. Kaysing of the Fifth Ward.

The Fifth Ward Regular Republican Club, meeting at 2331 Franklin avenue, adopted a resolution for Miller introduced by Batavia and indorsed Alderman Wiehe for re-election. The precinct workers of the Fifth Ward, led by Associate City Counselor Field, met at Kaysing's home, 4002 Marquette avenue, and indorsed Miller unanimously. A rival faction, the Fifth Ward Ward Kiel-for-Mayor Club, elected Clyde Carson chairman at his home, 1892 Longfellow boulevard.

Miller and Kiel to Speak at Town Club Friday.

Mayor Miller and former Mayor Kiel will make their first joint appearance in the campaign, at a dinner of the Town Club at 6 p.
m. Friday. Mrs. W. T. Nardin, chairman of the women's division of the Miller campaign, will introduce Miller, and Miss Florence Weigle, former Assistant Circuit
Attorney, will present Kiel. Miss Jennie Wahlert, president of the club, will preside. Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Kiel, Frederick Kreiselman and Isaac A. Hedges, campaign managers for Kiel and Miller, respectively, and Mrs. Hedges have been invited to sit at the speakers' table.

Kiel is scheduled to speak later the same evening before the Southampton Development League, Inc., at a regular meeting at the Butler school. Miller addressed the Twelfth Ward Regular Republican Club at 6318 Michigan avenue last night. George Jost was installed as president. Alderman Neumann and Committeeman Paulie, Miller supporters, were present.

J. M. WULFING DIES; SPECIALIZED IN ARCHAEOLOGY

Successful Business Man, Whose Hobby Was Ancient Civilizations, Succumbs After Operation.

John Max Wulfing, wholesale grocer, widely known coin collector and archaeologist, died last night in St. Anthony's Hospital, following a mastoid operation performed last Saturday. He was 69 years old, and had been ill for several months.

Mr. Wulfing is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lillie Guye Wulfing, and three daughters, Mrs. Gerry Fitzgerald, Mrs. Robert O. Meyer and Mrs. Eugene Tavenner. His mother, Mrs. Charles Wulfing, also survives him. The family home is at 2448 Longfellow place. The funeral will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the Church of Unity, 5015 Waterman avenue, and will be followed by cremation.

Had Notable Coin Collection.
Mr. Wulfing united, in an unusual manner, the character of a shrewd and successful business man with that of an enthusiast in the study of ancient civilizations.
He was president of the St. Louis Society of the Archaeological Institute of America, which he helped to establish, and was a councillor of the national organization. His collection of Greek and Roman coins was considered second to only one other private collection in the United States, that of a New York collector being first. He lately turned over the collection to Washington University, together with a fund for making future additions.

Chancellor Throop, former professor of Greek in the University, and Prof. E. W. Shipley, head of the Latin department, were Mr.
Wulfing's close associates in his promotion of archaeological research.
He had a large library on subjects relating to archaeology and particularly to numismatics, or the study of coins.

In his travels abroad, Mr. Wul-fing devoted most of his attention to the ruins of classic civilizations in Egypt, Greece and Italy. Dr.
James H. Breasted, Egyptologist of the University of Chicago, and Dr.
Felix von Luschan of the University of Berlin were his close friends.
He organized the St. Louis Sum-mitate Society 15 years ago, and was its president.

Aided Students in Germany.
In recent years Mr. Wulfing took an especial interest in the scholars and advanced students of Germany whose circumstances were impaired by the war. He was local head of the relief fund for advanced German students, which aided 120 such students in 10 universities in the period following the war. He was chairman of the St. Louis War Relief Board, which sent food to Germany after the war, supplying chiefly orphans.

He was one of a group in this country which recently supplied funds for continuation of the work undertaken by five noted German scholars, of preparing the Thesaurus Linguae Latinae or comprehensive dictionary of the Latin language. His endeavor in this and other ways was to restore the former cordiality between the scholars of the United States and those of Germany.

Because of his services to classical scholarship in Germany, and his humane work, he was an honorary citizen of the cities of Heidelberg, Bonn, Giessen and Breslau.

Started Business on $1000.
Mr. Wulfing was a native of St.
Louis, and was educated in the public schools and Smith Academy, winning a scholarship to Washington University. His parents removed to Germany, and instead of entering the university here, he studied in Germany for two years, at the gymnasia of Hanover and Wiesbaden.

Returning to St. Louis he worked for a time in his father's wholesale grocery store as an unpaid apprentice. In 1878, following his first year as a paid employee, he took $900 which he had saved from his earnings, and with a loan of $100, making $1000 capital, he went into the wholesale grocery business with a relative, Charles Gildehaus. He remained in this firm, still known as Gildehaus-Wulfing Co., until his retirement in 1927. He was head of the Wulfing Realty Co. and the Central Investment Co. He was chairman, until 1927, of the board of trustees of the Church of the Unity.

Honorary pallbearers will include Charles Nagel, August Walter, Carl Schlapp, Carlo Kraus, George Ahrens, Julius Muench,
Hugo Koehler, Dr. George Throop,
Dr. Thomas S. Duncan, Robert
Pommer, A. C. F. Meyer, Charles

15-YEAR-OLD BRIDE QUITS SOLDAN HIGH

Edna Ruth Leopold Kept Wedding in June Secret—Parents Forgive Her.

Ever since Edna Ruth Leopold, 15-year-old Soldan High School student, slipped away to Alton one afternoon last June and was married to 19-year-old Robert John Stinson, whom her parents had thought of only as her playmate, she had struggled between a desire to confide in her mother and a fear of doing so. Just recently —with the happiest results—did the information that her daughter had been married nearly eight months come to Mrs. George W.
Leopold.

At a party on Halloween, traditionally the night when young people may visualize their future mates, Edna Ruth met "Jack" Stinson. That was in 1927, when she was 14 years old. Thereafter young Stinson was a frequent visitor at the Leopold home at 1321 Maple avenue. But for the matter of that, so were other young men.

Then, last June, he learned he would have to make a trip to California. So, quite in keeping with time-honored tradition, the two were married, unknown to the elder Leopolds. The bridegroom went West and the bride, in the course of the trip, returned to her last year of studies at Soldan High School. She was to be graduated this June.

Mother Learns the News.
She went the even tenor of her way—but she was troubled. Her mother, she felt, should know how matters stood. Finally she hit upon an compromise, and several weeks ago she disabused herself to an older sister, who, of course, told her mother.

To Edna Ruth's delight, her parents, after a family council, not only approved her marriage, but assured her they would help her in every possible way. Meanwhile, Stinson had returned to his home at 5529 Waterman avenue. Today Edna Ruth, in Webster Groves, is contentedly keeping house for her husband.

"Naturally we were taken by surprise," the girl's mother said today. "We felt that our youngest daughter was too immature for marriage; but since it was so, and since we agreed she had made a fortunate choice of the young man, we decided it was better for her to quit school and go to housekeeping."

Follows Lead of Mother.
"When I started to explain that I thought she was too young, she said, 'But, mother, you married at 17 and look how happy you've been.' Inasmuch as she spoke only the truth, I really couldn't answer
her. After all, they are happy, and that is the important thing."

At Soldan High School, where the former Miss Leopold was known as an excellent student, officials said they had no definite information of their former pupil's marriage. They knew merely that she had failed to register last Friday for her final term, which began yesterday.

Stinson, a former St. Louis University student, is the son of Charles H. Stinson, freight traffic manager of the Wabash Railroad.
He is employed by Butler Brothers.

EDNA RABBE

It's Growing!

The shoulder-length bob is taking a real place among fashions of the hour for the younger set. In many high schools and colleges, more than half the girls are letting their hair grow to the new length. This style as worn by New York City girls is shown in the above photograph of Miss Edna Rabbe, 1925 Avenue G, Brooklyn.

Miss Rabbe says, "I am certainly delighted that I let my hair grow to the new length now that I have found a way to keep it easily manageable and attractive. My hair is ever so much fluffier and more vigorous than it has been for a long time. And it is free from all traces of dandruff, now. I attribute its improvement to the method I am using to care for it. It's so popular among the girls in my set. All we do is put a little Danderine on our brushes whenever we use them. This makes my hair so easy to dress any way I want it and holds it in place as I arrange it. Danderine soothes my scalp and keeps it and my hair so clean, I don't need to shampoo more than twice a month, now. And all my friends admire the way it makes my hair so bright and sparkling."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair, than shampoos or brilliantine. It removes that oily film from it, gives it new life and lustre. It cleanses and invigorates the scalp; helps overcome dandruff. Danderine is delightfully fragrant; isn't oily, doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles.

PHYSICIAN HELD UP,
AUTO AND $17 TAKEN

Another Motorist Robbed by Man Who Stops Him by Calling, "Look at Your Light."

As Dr. David M. Skilling Jr. emerged from St. Luke's Hospital last night and entered his automobile, parked at 5534 Enright avenue, a man with a revolver boarded the car and announced: "I'll take what you have." He took $17 and the car, valued at $1300.

"Look at your headlight," a man on the sidewalk called to Rudolph Block, 2729 Geyer avenue, at California and Ann avenues. Block stopped his automobile to inspect the headlight and the man entered the car, robbed Block of $4 and a $25 watch and drove off with the machine, which was abandoned later in the neighborhood.

A blind Negro, Edward Jordan, was held up by two men in his confectionery at 2628 North Leffingwell avenue and robbed of $2 and two cartons of cigarettes. A Negro girl who witnessed the hold-up described the robbers to police.

Other holdups reported: Mutual Grocery, 726 North Spring avenue, $95 taken; drug store at 1750 North Twelfth street, $54; restaurant at 2335 Chouteau avenue, $12; restaurant at 2623 South Jefferson avenue, $17; Samuel Mushnick, 5940A Bartmer avenue, $10 and eyeglasses.

Mrs. George P. Cherry, 3917 Botanical avenue, visited Shaw's Garden yesterday and later reported two diamond rings valued at $700 had disappeared from her purse.

Charles Vincent, 6701 Pennsylvania avenue, a locomotive engineer, whose wife is in a hospital, returned home from work at 5 a. m. today and found $100 in cash and $200 worth of jewelry had been stolen from a safe in the house.

Investigation of a $700 fire at a Standard Oil filling station, 2950 Olive street, yesterday, disclosed that two safes had been hammered and a pay telephone had been torn from the wall and looted, the fire evidently having been started by burglars.

OFFER OF COLLEGE PRESIDENCY TO COOLIDGE NOT CONFIRMED

Report Persists in Lansing That He Will be Invited to Take Charge of Michigan U.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 29.—A rumor that the presidency of the University of Michigan may be offered to President Coolidge when the resignation of Dr. Clarence Cook Little becomes effective next September, has gained wide circulation among state officers here. It lacks confirmation, however.

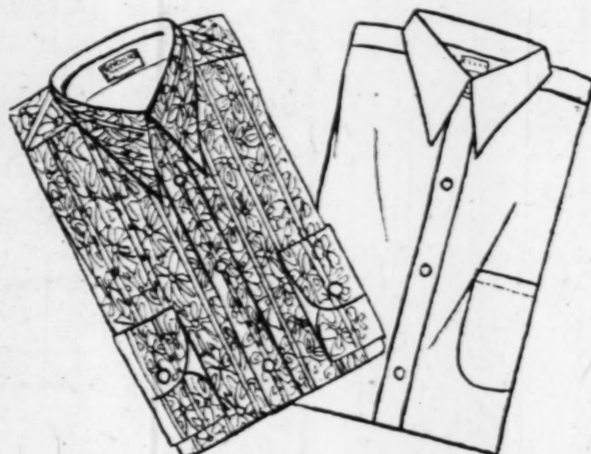

Dr. Little's successor will be selected by a committee appointed by the Board of Regents. John S. Haggerty, Secretary of State said that if President Coolidge could be induced to accept the presidency it would be a "great thing" for the University, but said he could not comment further.

DIES AFTER TRUCK ROLLS DOWN HILL

Charles E. Brown, Driver, Caught Under Machine When Earth Gives Way.

Charles E. Brown, 32 years old, a hauling contractor, 3354A Easton avenue, died at city Hospital at 5 o'clock this morning of a fractured skull suffered yesterday when his truck rolled down a 125-foot embankment at Arsenal street and McCausland avenue while unloading dirt.

Brown backed his truck to the edge of the embankment, which is being filled in connection with the construction of a viaduct, when the loose earth gave way. The machine overturned during its course down the slope and Brown was crushed beneath it. An inquest will be held.

The death at Mallinckrodt Hospital yesterday of Mrs. Ethel Sanford, 1944A Benton street, was due to pneumonia and not to injuries suffered in an automobile accident, a coroner's jury decided today. Mrs. Sanford had been injured Dec. 12, when her automobile was struck by a truck at Twenty-fifth and Madison streets, and entered the hospital two weeks later. At the time it was thought her condition was due to injuries received in the accident.

Edward Wallace, 3233 Knapp street, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, and Bud Webb, 4015 North Twenty-fifth street, was cut and bruised when motorcycles they were riding collided at Fourteenth and Poplar streets. Webb reported that he was thrown into the path of Wallace's motorcycle when he ran into building material in the street.

45,000 WEATHER LOTTERY TICKETS SEIZED BY POLICE

Gambling Squad Raids Office in Holland Building; Woman Arrested.

Forty-five thousand weather lottery tickets and 350 names of agents were seized by the police gambling squad in a raid yesterday afternoon on room 1317 Holland Building.

Detective-Sergeant Charles McKenna, who directed the raid after receiving an anonymous tip, said the place appeared to have been the headquarters for much of the lottery business in St. Louis. A woman found in charge of the office said she was Mrs. May Burk, 35 years old, 3905 Russell boulevard. She said her employer, Henry Mueller, was in Kentucky. Mrs. Burk was placed under $200 bail.

The tickets seized ranged in price from 10 cents to $2 and bore the names of the old Dominion Co., Original Triple Play Weekly, Guarantee Weekly, Original Yellow, Saturday Special, Blue Weekly, Original Green and Thursday Special. Also confiscated were an index of the agents' names and six plates for printing the tickets. The case will be presented to Circuit Attorney Miller.

GOV. CAULFIELD TO COME TO ST. LOUIS ON THURSDAY

Executive and His Staff to Take Part in Ceremonies at Opening of New Motion Picture Theater. Gov. Caulfield will come to St. Louis on Thursday morning to take part in the ceremonies attending the opening of the new Fox Theater at Grand and Washington boulevards that evening. It will be the first time in nearly 50 years, theatrical men say, that the Governor of the State has presided at the opening of a showhouse. When the Grand Opera House was rebuilt and rededicated in 1881 Gov. Crittenden and Mayor Ewing played a prominent part in the affair. At the opening of the Fox house Thursday night Mayor Miller is to make an address by way of the microphone on the sound screen. Gov. Caulfield's address is to be made in person.

The Governor will go to the theater with his staff of recently appointed Colonels and a guard of honor of 100 militiamen.

BOSTON SUNDAY BASEBALL ORDINANCE PASSED BY COUNCIL

Measure Had Provoked Charges of Bribery Against Members of City Legislative Body.

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, Jan. 29.—Mayor Nichols today had under consideration an ordinance regulating the granting of licenses for Sunday professional baseball in this city, passed by the City Council yesterday.

The ordinance was passed by a vote of 12 to 7 after several councilmen had denounced Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Boston National League Club, and Charles F. Adams, vice president.

The measure provides that weekday prices of admission should not be increased on Sunday, and that a fee of $2500 should be charged for baseball licenses in parks having seating capacity of 40,000. Charges that members of Council sought bribes from Braves have been heard by City Finance Committee.

JAMES CLOUD

Missouri Boy Needed Help

James Cloud, 823 Madison St., St. Louis, is a "regular fellow," active in sports and at the top in his classes at school. To look at him now, you'd think he never had a day's sickness but his mother says: "James was a bottle baby and we found his stomach and bowels were weak. He kept suffering from constipation. Nothing he ate agreed with him. He was fretful, feverish and puffy."

"My sister-in-law got us to give him California Fig Syrup, and his condition improved quickly. His constipation and biliousness stopped and he has had no more trouble of that kind. I have since used California Fig Syrup with all my children for colds and upset spells. They like it because it tastes so good, and I like it because it helps them so wonderfully."

California Fig Syrup has been the trusted standby of mothers for over 50 years. Leading physicians recommended it. It is purely vegetable and works with Nature to regulate, tone and strengthen the stomach and bowels of children so they get full nourishment from their food and waste is eliminated in a normal way.

Four million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it. Always look for the word "California" on the carton to be sure of getting the genuine.

FEDERAL LOANS URGED IN DRAINAGE DISTRICTS

Illinois and Arkansas Congressmen Back Smith Bill for $180,000,000 Fund.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—An appeal was made yesterday to the House Irrigation Committee to lighten the tax burden on farmers in levee and drainage districts by approving the Smith bill to create a $180,000,000 fund for loans without interest to the districts for redeeming their bonds.

Representative Rainey of Illinois and Driver of Arkansas, both Democrats, urged approval of the legislation, declaring that in many instances the levee district taxes of farmers were larger than the total amount of their other taxes. For sale purposes, Rainey said, many of the lands in levee and drainage districts in Illinois were worthless because of the heavy assessments laid against them for improvements.

Both Rainey and Driver contended that with the passage of legislation to authorize the lending of money to districts to pay off their bonded indebtedness as provided in the Smith proposal, the load would be greatly lightened by the elimination of interest charges.

Rainey suggested that the Smith measure be modified to limit the loans to levee districts along navigable streams. He said that there were 1093 levee, drainage and sanitary districts in Illinois alone, and that under the present language of the bill, all of these, including probably the Chicago drainage district, would be eligible for loans.

With the loans limited to navigable streams, he estimated that districts in 35 States would receive benefit from the legislation.

W. W. Powell, Washington legislative representative for a group of drainage districts, said that many farms in drainage districts were being sold for their taxes and that this condition would continue unless some relief was afforded.

DEATH RATE FOR MISSOURI SHOWS DECREASE IN 1927

Mortality Was 1161 Per 100,000 Population Against 1222 in 1926.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The Department of Commerce announced today that the 1927 death rate for Missouri was 1161 per 100,000 population as compared with 1222 in 1926. This decrease in 1927 is more than accounted for by decreases in the death rates from pneumonia, all forms (from 119 to 84 per 100,000 population); influenza (from 46 to 25); diphtheria and enteritis, under 2 years (from 28 to 20); tuberculosis, all forms (from 84 to 73); measles (from 8 to 5); and typhoid and paratyphoid fever (from 10 to 7).

Increases in death rates in 1927 were from diseases of the heart (from 180 in 1926 to 186 per 100,000 population), and cancer (from 101 to 106).

The estimated midyear population of Missouri was 2,510,000 in 1927 and 2,498,000 in 1926.

Total deaths in 1927 were 40,762 and in 1926 42,722.

BANK STOCK RISE ADDS $200,000 TO ESTATE

Inventory of Miss Louise Westman's Will Filed at Clayton; Former Total $631,275.

The estate of Miss Louise Westman, who died Nov. 19, is valued at $831,275 in an inventory filed in Probate Court at Clayton yesterday, although accretion in value of stocks listed at par will place the value more than $200,000 higher.

Miss Westman was the daughter of the late John B. Westman, former president of the Franklin Bank, which merged last year to become the Franklin-American Trust Co. Seven hundred shares of this stock listed in the inventory at $100 par, were worth $225 each yesterday, increasing the value of the estate $17,500.

Other stocks and their total value above par are: St. Louis Union Trust Co. 75 shares, $29,250; 440 shares Diamond Match, $25,080; 326 shares United States Bank of St. Louis, $15,120; 400 American Car & Foundry, $7,600; 530 Missouri Portland Cement, $16,240.

Other items of the inventory are: Real estate, $12,500; notes, $500; cash, $22,445; bonds, $294,585; chattels, $5829.

Requests of $16,500 to eight St. Louis charities and small bequests to relatives and friends were provided in her will which left the residue of the estate to four nieces and nephews, Harriet W. Todd and Carlotta W. Nash of Pittsburg, Pa., and Walter and Carl Westman of Pasadena, Cal.

Miss Westman was 66 years old and resided at 6314 Washington avenue.

NURSE GOES ON STAND IN HIGBEE WILL SUIT Says She Thinks Woman Who Left $1,341,000 Estate
Had Mind of Child.

Mrs. Jennie Pavlick, employed by Mrs. Fannie H. Higbee as nurse for seven years before Mrs. Higbee's death in 1927, testified today as one of the defense witnesses in the suit of Mrs. Joseph Pavlick, contending the will of her sister, Mrs. Higbee, was invalid.
The case is being heard by a jury in Judge Kavanaugh's court. The suit alleges that Mrs. Higbee, who left her $1,341,000 estate to her nephew, was of such feeble mind when she executed her will that it was invalid.

A bequest of $5000 was made to Mrs. Pavlick in the will. Edward W. Farnell, counsel for the defense, questioned Mrs. Pavlick as to her mental condition at the time she signed her will in 1924. Mrs.
Higbee appeared to the nurse to be of sound mind.

"Mind of Child," Nurse Says.
Mrs. Pavlick replied that being with Mrs. Higbee seven years, under various conditions, I would say positively, without any doubt, that Mrs. Higbee had the mind of a child or 10-year-old. She liked children things, and she did childish things.

Attorney Foristel took exception to this answer. The plaintiff's counsel, Thomas M. Pierce, argued that Foristel should not be permitted to impeach his own witness, but after a legal argument, Foris-tel was permitted to introduce a deposition signed by Mrs. Pavlick last March. In the deposition Mrs.
Pavlick, when asked whether she thought Mrs. Higbee was of sound mind when making the will, said
"Yes." When asked whether she noticed anything abnormal about her up to that time, she said she noticed nothing abnormal until her last illness.

"I meant," Mrs. Pavlick explained today in cross-examination,
"that I thought what mind she had was sound." She said that on the day when the will was signed,
Mrs. Higbee's physician, Dr.
Brooks, had given Mrs. Higbee a hypodermic injection of digitalis, a heart stimulant.

Plaintiff's Counsel Calls Doctor.
The defense rested its case, and the plaintiff's counsel called Dr.
Elsworth Smith as a heart specialist. He was asked as to the effect of myocarditis, a chronic inflammation of the heart muscles, from which Mrs. Higbee suffered, upon the brain. Dr. Smith said that impairment of the blood supply, through myocarditis, might affect the functioning of the brain, that the memory might be impaired, and that ideas of persecution might be entertained. He said that blueness of the lips, said by a previous witness to have been noticeable in Mrs. Higbee's case, would be an index of imperfect blood supply to the brain.

A previous defense witness, W. I.
Mills, who was formerly an employee of the American Central Insurance Co., told of visits made by Mrs. Higbee to her nephew, B. G.
Chapman Jr., at the insurance office. He said Mrs. Higbee remarked to him that Chapman was never too busy to see her, and that he would never forget it. Mills said he considered Mrs. Higbee to be of sound mind.

Testimony of five friends and relatives of Mrs. Higbee and the deposition of another were heard yesterday. All gave the opinion that she was of sound mind. The witnesses were Mrs. Clara Trottman of Louisiana, Mo.; Mrs.
Walker Hill of the Forest Park
Hotel, Patterson Bldg. of 2314
Waterman boulevard, Mrs. Mary H. Fisher of 1849 Cates avenue, a cousin of Mrs. Higbee and chairman of the board of the Y. W. C.
A. E. Mrs. L. C. Hopkins, wife of Mrs. Higbee's brother, Warner
M. Hopkins, and in the deposition,
Mrs. Nellie Higbee Chaney of Jerseyville, Ill., sister of Mrs. Higbee's husband, the late Rufus B.
Higbee.

Knew Her 24 Years.
Mrs. Trottmann said she had known Mrs. Higbee 24 years, but had known her best since 1922, when she began going to gospel meetings every afternoon during the summer with Mrs. Higbee and the latter's sister and principal heir, Mrs. Louise H. Chapman of Detroit. Mrs. Higbee never changed her mind about things,
the witness said. Cross-examined,
Mrs. Trottmann related that Mrs.
Higbee loved her other sister, the late Mrs. Elizabeth Edgar, Mrs.
Pavlick's mother, and was excited by Mrs. Edgar's death.

A "single-track" mind characterized Mrs. Higbee, according to Mrs. Hopkins, who explained that when Mrs. Higbee made up her mind to do a thing she was bound to do it. Mrs. Chaney's deposition quoted Mrs. Higbee as once having said she would "leave everything" to her nephew and executor, Benjamin G. Chapman Jr. Mrs.
Chapman's son, and as having complained that Mrs. Edgar's daughters were inattentive to her. On cross-examination, when asked if Mrs. Higbee had any complaint about Chapman, Mrs. Chaney said Mrs. Higbee had wished he would go to church and was sorry he smoked cigars.

Cabot, Ark., was killed and Lieut.

DOCTORS END COLD QUICK, NOVEL WAY

Many Here Find Hospital Method
Ends Colds In a Few Hours—
Is Convenient For Home Use

Urging the danger of neglecting a cold during pneumonia weather, hospital physicians are recommending home use of a pleasant hospital method. And numbers of St. Louis people find that it gives almost instant relief—then quickly drives the cold out of one's system.

Miss Mildred Kearne, for example, had neglected a cold until congestion started spreading rapidly. Fearing pneumonia then she called her doctor, who advised double strength doses of Ayer's Pectoral, a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, terpenhydrate and other ingredients which have relieved even the most extreme colds.

With the first pleasant swallow she felt the comforting, healing warmth—from her nose passages deep down into her chest. In a few hours that "feverish, grippy" feeling began to disappear; she coughed less and could breathe easier thro-her nose. And in another day or so doctors report, she was completely rid of the cold.

Note: Other cases reported daily—
all certified by attending physician.
Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Pectoral now and you too will feel like a different person tomorrow. Endorsed by Walgreen's, Walgreen-Wilson and other first-class druggists.

"Before I took Weldonna tablets I

MR. DAVID GIBSON.

continued: "My shoulders were stiff and painful and often kept me awake at night. In fact I had to give up my work on account of the pain. It was impossible for me to get my hands to my face or shave because of the pain and stiffness in my shoulders.

"Reading so much about Weldonna tablets and how they had helped so many other sufferers right here in St. Louis, I decided to give them a trial. I am glad I did for in a few weeks I was able to return to work.
The pain and stiffness has left me and I feel like a new man. If anyone questions my statement I would be glad to tell them more about my case if they will call at my home."

Weldonna tablets are always put up in a box—never in a bottle. Ask for Weldonna tablets, which are recommended for rheumatism and rheu-ts are absolutely harmless and will

KILLS SICK WIFE, THEN ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

"It Seems Gracious Thing to Do," Says Note Left by Colorado Attorney.

By the Associated Press.

BOULDER, Colo., Jan. 29.—Leaving a note to the County Coroner in which he said "It seems to me the gracious thing to do," James E. Kirkbride, former Deputy District Attorney, shot and killed his sick wife and then ended his own life here. Both were 45 years old. Their frozen bodies were found in their home. Apparently they died last Sunday.

"Frances pleads to be released from earthly bonds," Kirkbride wrote. "I see nothing in the future but cares, worries, failure and possible collapse. I have thought it over from every angle, spiritual, moral, legal and social, and it seems to me the gracious thing to do."

Kirkbride was not reappointed to office early this month, he explained in a note, because of "politics." His wife recently had been a patient at the Denver psychopathic hospital.

NIEDERLUECKE BOUGHT MARSHAL'S BADGES

Admits Ordering Them for "Friend"—To Be Retried
on Dyer Act Charge.

Further investigation of the activities of William H. Niederluecke Jr., in whose room the police found a small arsenal, when they arrested him Saturday night in connection with a Chicago robbery, disclosed that he purchased two United States Marshal's badges from a St. Louis firm two weeks ago.

The badges were ordered to be engraved, "W. Neville, Deputy United States Marshal for Illinois," and "J. Simon, Deputy United States Marshal for Illinois." They were mailed, it was learned, to "Neville," at a Chicago address.

The police say Niederluecke was sometimes known as W. Neville, as well as Woodward Norton, the name under which he purchased the badges. Questioned at Police Headquarters, he admitted, the police say, that he ordered the badges and paid for them.

According to the police, his explanation was: "I ordered those badges for my friend, Mr. Simon, and I had them sent to his address in Chicago." When the police found an automatic rifle, a pump-action shotgun and four pistols in his room at the Biltmore Hotel, 2643 Washington avenue, he explained, "It's my hobby to collect weapons."

The United States District Court of Appeals reversed the conviction a year and a half ago and remanded the case for trial. U. S. District Attorney Stettin said today the case would be retried at the March term of court.

The efforts of Mogler and Niederluecke's father took them to Police Headquarters, where they asked Chief Gerk to turn the prisoner over to them for a few minutes so they could deliver him to Federal Court and be relieved of the bond. Chief Gerk refused, and recommended that they seek a court order for the custody of his prisoner. They were accompanied by August H. Niederluecke, Alderman from the Nineteenth Ward and uncle of the arrested man.

A telegram from the Chicago police department today stated that an application had been made for an extradition warrant for Niederluecke. Four men arrested there have confessed participating in numerous holdups and safe burglaries with a total loot of $200,000. It was upon the statement of these men that Niederluecke was arrested.

He denied having anything to do with robberies in Chicago.

Niederluecke was a student at the University of Missouri 10 years ago, but was dismissed, it has been learned.

Edward Preiss Jr., 4 years old, and his brother, Michael, 19 months old, are in a serious condition at City Hospital from the effects of poison, which was given them by mistake for cough medicine yesterday.

The children and their mother, Mrs. Helen Preiss, were sick in bed with colds and Mrs. Preiss asked her father-in-law, Michael Preiss, to give the children their cough medicine. Preiss obtained by mistake a bottle containing poison and gave each child a teaspoonful of the poison.

STATE AID FOR SCHOOLS

Bill Introduced to Provide for Poorer Counties.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 28.—The proposal of the State Teachers' Association that equal educational opportunities should be provided for every child in Missouri, was introduced in the Senate today by Senator McCawley of Carthage. State aid for schools unable to meet the financial drain would be provided.

For first-class schools the bill proposes to provide funds making possible the expenditure of $50 for every child enrolled in the school, and for second-class schools the provision would be $50 for each child. Only school districts which have voted the maximum school tax of 65 cents on the $100 of valuation and then failed to get enough money could share in the State aid.

Lower Fare in Service Cars.

A reduced fare of 15 cents from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. was put into effect yesterday by the Delmar Service Car Drivers' Association, operating over the Delmar-Washington route between University City and Eads Bridge. The fare at other hours remains 25 cents.

Republicans Hold Party

Appropriation Question
Into Committee.

Garner Tries to Obtain Pledge From Wood Two Amendments Will Be Submitted to Poll.

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Wets, drys, Republicans and Democrats finally maneuvered in the House today for strategic advantage on the Senate's proposals to appropriate $24,000,000 additional for prohibition enforcement and to make public the Treasury Department's decisions on income tax returns of $10,000 and more.

After 45 minutes of clamorous and disorganized debate, Republican leaders forced adjournment until tomorrow.

This will give the administration an opportunity to report out a special rule today governing debate on the deficiency bill of which the Senate amendments are the principal items.

Rules Committee Called.
A special meeting of the House Rules Committee was called for 2 p. m. today.

The motion to adjourn was carried, 195 to 93, with the decision on strictly party lines.

Party lines were smashed during the short debate, although many dry Republicans will vote against the $24,000,000 prohibition appropriation.

In an effort to keep the Republicans in line, administration leaders yesterday gave strict orders that every Republican should be in his seat at noon today and should remain in the chamber until a vote was taken.

The debate started when Representative Will Wood of Indiana, acting Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, asked unanimous consent to refer the deficiency bill to a joint conference committee of the House and Senate.

Garner Asks Pledge.
Representative Garner of Texas, ranking minority member of the House Ways and Means committee and Representative Byrnes of Tennessee, ranking Democratic member of the Appropriations Committee, immediately asked Wood for a pledge that he would report the prohibition and the income tax publicity amendments back to the House for a vote. Wood refused to give such a pledge, but stated that he was sure that the Senate conferees would demand that these amendments remain in the bill, which would give the House an opportunity to express its sentiment on the two proposals.

He stated, however, that should the Senate conferees agree to eliminate the two proposals from the bill he would be obliged to accept their views. Under such procedure, any amendment thus withdrawn could not be voted on later by the House.

Other members joined in the debate. Wood was aided by Representative Louis C. Cramton (Rep.) of Michigan, one of the most ardent drys in Congress. Cramton has stated that he will vote against the increased prohibition appropriation. Garner and Byrnes had the help of Representative F. H. Laguardia (Rep.) of New York, one of the most ardent wets.

Party Lines Muddled.
Since the proposal was first introduced by Senator Harris of Georgia, it has been attended by controversy and even before it reached the House members there had announced differences of opinion that promised a full-sized row. Some wets are supporting it; some drys are against it and party lines are muddled.

Added to this is Secretary Mellon's opposition to the proposal and the fervent support given it by most dry organizations. F. Scott McBride, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, after making statements that were interpreted as supporting Secretary Mellon's position, later declared for the amendment and has sent a circular letter to Representatives urging its passage.

Lady Heath Seeks U. S. Citizenship.
By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Lady Heath, British flyer, former holder of altitude and time records for women, procured her first papers at the Naturalization Bureau today. She said she intended to devote herself to the upbuilding of aviation as a science and a profession among American women.

BYRD SENT NEWS OF HIS FLIGHT TO SHIP AND BASE BY RADIO

As Plane's Signals Came Through Loud Speakers, Men Behind Traced His Movements on Maps.

By RUSSELL OWEN, (Copyright, 1929, by the Post-Dispatch and New York Times. World Rights Reserved.)

This story is published exclusively in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All news articles from members of the Byrd party or from special correspondents assigned to it will appear in the Post-Dispatch in this city.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Jan. 28.—(By Wireless—Delayed) —Commander Byrd has done it again. While his second ship was coming in, while his men were working desperately at both the base and at the edge of the ice, he took advantage of a few hours of good weather yesterday and made his first long flight.

It was full of accomplishment, planned and executed perfectly, and all of the mountain range and other things hitherto unseen have been added to the map of this mysterious land.

And what is more, he managed to peep over the inaccessible ice fields which hide a vast area south of the King Edward sector and catch a glimpse of a fascinating hinterland.

Perhaps never did the various divisions of an expedition move more methodically and accurately, for while the flight was on, while from the radio room of the bark City of New York could be heard the buzzing of the plane's signals through a loud speaker, a sound that thrilled everyone aboard until they laughed and yelled and urged the ship harder into the ice they were trying to break, the steamship Eleanor Bolling hove in sight from the north and came down to join us.

Now she is anchored alongside the barrier unloading as it at a dock; her winches rattling and with booms swinging while men rush the material, taken off, up a gentle slope to the firm top of the barrier.

Good Weather for Flight. Byrd's flight was undertaken as easily as a flight over Long Island. He was well ready for it, the plane was equipped and tanks filled and he was merely waiting for good weather which had deserted us for a few days. Night before last it began to clear and yesterday morning a soft blue sky and bright sun shone down on the ice.

Only a few tiny flecks of clouds were to be seen, a brisk wind was blowing from the southwest and everything indicated that the thick weather had gone out to sea for hundreds of miles to the east.

"Cyclone" Haines, our meteorologist, sent up a balloon at the camp and found winds of 20 to 30 miles an hour at varying altitudes up to a mile. This satisfied him that the bad weather had really moved away and he advised the commander that the flight might be undertaken in the afternoon.

So after the Sunday dinner in the forenoon a dinner of chicken and mince pie, Commander Byrd said: "Well, we might as well go. It looks good" and climbed over the side into a sled driven by Jack Bursey to make the run out to the camp.

He forgot some of the radio instructions for the plane and they were discovered when he was about a mile away. Chris Braaten, a fast ski runner, put on his skis and chased the dog team nearly to the camp before he caught up with it.

Crew Eager to Fly. When the commander arrived there he found the motor of the plane already being warmed up, so anxious were Bert Balchen and Harold June to get away on this first historic flight. Balchen was the pilot and June, who is a good radio operator as well as pilot, was to work the radio. Byrd checked up as he saw the motor running and saw the enthusiasm of the crew. He walked over to the plane, looked over his equipment, put his navigation instruments and charts aboard and then had a brief conference with Larry Gould, his chief lieutenant on the ice. Together they checked the chronometers and adjusted the sun compass and fastened this invaluable little instrument in its place.

Balchen was in the plane warming the motor and when he signalled that it was all right, June got in and settled himself at the rear of the cabin behind his radio instruments with a radio helmet strapped on his head. Gould shook hands with the commander and then the others crowded around him and wished him good luck. He smiled and stepped inside and everyone at the camp tried to close the door. When it was finally shut and men backed out of the cold stream from the propeller, Balchen gave her the gun and with the aid of those outside broke the skis loose from the snow.

He taxied far up on a hill toward the north to get a good run. There was never such a flying field as this. The camp is just on the edge of a slight depression which runs for two or three miles in one direction and at least a mile and a half in the other, a fairly smooth untouched snow desert, ideal for flying with skis. The plane was heavily loaded, with a total load of nearly 5700 pounds, but when Balchen opened up and headed down the slope toward the houses and the little group of anxiously watching men, the skis worked so perfectly that in 30 seconds the plane was in the air and climbing rapidly toward the south.

After gaining altitude he circled and Byrd put the plane on the course for Scott's nunataks (ice hills). Incidentally, he hit them right on the nose after a flight of 180 miles. There was not much wind on the ground but as the plane got aloft and caught a stiff breeze on its tail it shot off to the northeast at 120 miles an hour. From the ship it could be seen rising over the cape to the north and those aboard cheered and waved their hands until it disappeared over the edge of the barrier.

The commander had issued orders that as soon as he left an attempt should be made to get in close to the barrier and had sent Sver Strom and Braathen over the look at the ice which had defied the City of New York a few days ago. With the Eleanor Bolling coming in a few hours, there was urgent need of getting to the low spot in the barrier if possible, but all the time we have been here watching for the ice to move it has stuck to that place like tar to a dog's back.

Ice Begins to Move Out. At the last moment, when the ice around the ship and all along the edge of the bay was getting so rotten that it was beginning to get dangerous and it did not seem possible that the Bolling could be unloaded quickly, the ice over on the eastern shore began to move. By the time the commander left there was only a little heavy pressure ice between the water and the low barrier.

The value of this place can easily be realized. It is like the edge of a saucer, a gentle slope coming down to within a few feet of the top of the bay ice which at this point is quite thick and about three feet above the water. At the north end of the saucer-like depression is a gentle slope run down to the bay ice, a perfect pathway for hauling up sleds. On each side of this low spot the barrier rises to 50 feet, much too high for us, and it so happens that this low spot is the only one between us and the camp and the nearest to open water. The fact that we could get near to it at the last moment was so many failures seemed too good to be true.

Ship Bucks the Ice. The City of New York started to buck the ice which remained, while eyes were cast astern to the North for the Eleanor Bolling's smoke. Time after time the stout ship would get stuck in the ice, thick but rotten stuff, forcing a passage to a pool of open water ahead, which if it could be reached would cut off so much that the ice pressure would move. Down in the fire room Bubler, airplane mechanic and temporary stoker, was tossing coal on the fire and yelling every time the ship hit: "Hit, old girl; hit it on the nose" and trying to pop the safety valve.

Everyone was smiling and gay with the thought that Byrd had successfully started on an important flight and that in a short time the mail from home would be in. Men at the wheel or engine room telegraphed, or hanging over the stern watching the ice around the rudder, turned their eyes seaward every few moments for the Eleanor Bolling.

Eleanor Bolling Sighted. From the rigging a yell went up: "Here she comes," and the top of the masts could be seen above the glassy horizon.

All the traditions of the Antarctic had been shattered and for the first time an expedition ship built of steel had forced its way through heavy pack ice and reached the continent.

Folks at home and in New Zealand had said it couldn't be done, but there it was.

"I'll bring her down," said Brown, the captain, and he did. The Bolling was loaded so it bulged. Things were piled all over the decks. It had gasoline and blasting powder and all sorts of potential hell aboard, as well as a big house and coal and food, even whale meat hung all over it, for most of the load was bulk rather than weight and it was a foot above its Plimsoll mark when it got in.

The Bolling had come through a pack so thick that it had to buck it for four days and depended on the power of its engine to get through. That is one thing we have learned down here, the value of engine power.

"Sure we come through all right," said Brown. "Der sides they go a little this way," he said, moving his hands together to show the power of its engine to get through. "But we come through." "Well I'll be blowed," called out Capt. Melville of the City of New York. "If he hasn't got all his flags out. The American flag and the house flag and the mail flag." GERMAN EDITOR FORESEES TROUBLE THOUGH NOT WAR

Evacuation and Reparations Dangerous Issues, Asserts Wolf von Dewall of Frankfurter Zeitung.

BRITON SAYS ENGLISH POLICY IS "STUPID"

Chamberlain Controls It in Great Degree, Harrison Brown Tells Foreign Affairs Society.

Stirring events and situations of deepest gravity in Europe in the next few months were forecast by "Wolf von Dewall, foreign editor of the Frankfurter Zeitung, at the organization meeting of the Society on Foreign Affairs last night at Hotel Statler. But he declared with conviction, they will not mean war.

Von Dewall and Harrison Brown, British advocate of the outlawing of war, were the first speakers of the new society, which succeeded the dissolved St. Louis branch of the Foreign Policy Association.

Brown characterized the foreign policy of the Conservative British Government for the last six or seven years as "ineffably stupid" rather than vicious. He gave particular attention to the recent Anglo-French agreement. Von Dewall traced the return of Germany into world prominence "not in military grandeur, but as one of the greatest nations that work for peace."

Both contended that through even the most serious impending diplomatic conflicts, open diplomacy and the will of peoples would avert war.

Chamberlain "No Genius." "The present British policy is controlled in large measure by Sir Austen Chamberlain," said Brown. "Sir Austen is by instinct automatic, by impulse sentimental, but, unfortunately, by nature not a genius."

Failure of the disarmament conference of 1927 has forced attention on Anglo-American relations. Then, he related, the drastic Russian disarmament proposal to the League of Nations brought on a slump of the League in British public opinion, wherein, however, the British press went to such lengths that the British people sharply reacted.

"We began to realize," Brown remarked, "that if this League didn't get anywhere, very likely it was the fault of the nations sending delegates; if we had reactionary governments, we would have a reactionary League. That, in my mind, is the healthiest sign in the 10 years."

Criticism reached Sir Austen, he said, and on the advice of the Imperial Council of Defense, a body of military technicians, he announced the Anglo-French agreement, and in an incredibly short time the whole country rose up against this agreement, though they knew nothing about it."

Secret Diplomacy Repented. "The reasons for the outbreak were, first, its title of 'secret diplomacy,'" said Brown. "The British people may not have learned anything more of politics since 1914, but they have learned certain phrases, and 'secret diplomacy' is one of the phrases that scare them. Second, they realized that this unpleasant-sounding affair would interfere with Anglo-American relations, and for some years it has been an understanding that no Government, left or right, shall disturb these relations. Third, the agreement was being made at the same time with the negotiations for the peace pact."

"I never thought it was directed against the United States—have never yet heard any argument that sounded feasible to show that it was. I thought it was ineffably stupid."

"Our Government lagged behind Germany in accepting the multilateral treaty. There is no doubt that the British people resent the Government making them appear reluctant to enter into friendship. The Government has been a victim of sensationalism. It is not actuated by hostility to any nation, certainly not the United States. It has, at times, been desperately clumsy. But I believe, sincerely, the feeling is such that if we had a Government which wanted war with the United States, it would be the Government that would go into the sea."

Locarno the Turning Point. Von Dewall traced the post-war course of Germany until, in 1924, "the French people rebelled against the French Nationalists," and the Dawes plan, taking reparations out of politics, was adopted. The Nationalists had aimed to split Ger-

By attaching lifting chains, in the case of a submarine mishap, salvage ships would be able to raise the distressed vessel much quicker than by the old method whereby divers sought to loop chains around the entire hull—a very slow and often impossible task.

many by seizing the left bank of the Rhine for French security, said Von Dewall, and so Germany made the offer of Locarno, for an agreement of all nations interested in the Rhineland.

"Locarno was a turning point in European history," he declared. "The Rhine for centuries had been the battlefield of Europe. Now all the nations had come together to outlaw war on the Rhine. The cooperation between Germany and France opened the way for Germany to enter the League and cooperate with all nations."

"The problem of minorities is now before the league. It is a problem of such gravity that it will require a long time for solution, but once before the league, it is here until it is solved. I am optimistic, too, about disarmament. That will come also, as soon as the nations, perhaps through the Kellogg pact, realize that we already are living in a new era, the era when war has ceased to be a legal instrument of national policy."

"We Shall Maintain Peace." "But what about reparations and evacuation? I am sure that on account of the necessity of solving them, we are facing serious times. You will hear exciting reports for the next few months, perhaps the whole year. But we shall solve it all, despite the growing impression of the German nation at continued occupation 10 years after the war—fuel that feeds Nationalist propaganda. We will solve them, and then we will have real peace. We ask you, in the United States, when you read those exciting reports to believe they are serious, but that we shall maintain peace—we shall be all right—we peoples of Europe."

SANDINO BREAKS WITH TURCIOS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Jan. 29.—Augusto Sandino, Nicaraguan insurgent leader, has formally severed relations with Froylan Turcios, hitherto his representative outside of Nicaragua. A letter was delivered to Turcios by special messenger yesterday under date of Jan. 7, announcing the break.

The action is understood to have followed certain proposals by Turcios to Sandino which the latter considered unworthy of his cause. The nature of these proposals was not disclosed.

House Passes Education Bill. WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The House yesterday passed a Senate bill to grant a $500,000 increase annually for five years for vocational education. The measure was sent back to the Senate for agreement to amendments.

STRESSES REDUCTION OF NATIONAL DEBT

Scaling Down of Federal Taxes Is Also Emphasized—Executive Praises Work of Director Lord.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Bldg. WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Making his final appearance before the business organization of the Government, President Coolidge last night cast the accounts of the Federal Government for the past eight years and heartily approved the results.

"This period," he said, "will be a golden page in our history." The meeting, held at Memorial Continental Hall, was attended by chiefs of the various divisions of the Government and other employees of the executive departments.

The President stated that much of the economy effected during the past eight years was due to the loyalty and perseverance of the rank and file in the Government. He was lavish in his praise of Gen. H. M. Lord, Director of the Bureau of the Budget, who followed him on the program.

Although no mention was made of the Republican and Democratic parties, the President's address closely resembled a campaign document. He painted a dark picture of the Government's financial condition in 1921, when the Republican party took over the administration, and compared it with a rosiest description of what had been accomplished during the past eight years. He repeatedly emphasized that the public debt had been reduced from $24,000,000,000 to $17,000,000,000 and that Federal taxes had been revised downward four times.

Commenting first on the work of the Bureau of the Budget, the President said: "When we began the task in June, 1921, of reconstructing our public finances, it looked almost impossible of accomplishment. To Reduce Traffic Accidents.

THE cartoon, "Anyone May Drive an Automobile," suggests that more thought must be given to the drivers of vehicles on the streets of St. Louis. The medical profession realizes that the psychiatric or nervous condition of the average person, male or female, endangers the safety of pedestrians and motorists.

The comments by T. A. B. Army Nurse Corps, should receive favorable consideration. Her suggestion, to compel all drivers of vehicles to meet physical, mental and moral requirements, will help to reduce traffic accidents. It is evident that a driver of any vehicle who is color blind is a menace to safety on the streets. Many drivers are not mentally or physically fit to operate any vehicle on St. Louis streets.

Last year's record of traffic accidents warrants the enactment of local and State laws which will govern the requirements for drivers of all types of vehicles. Mental and physical fitness should be the chief requirement. This to be determined by competent medical examinations. The certificate of soundness should also bear a photo of the individual, with a notary seal impressed both through the photo and doctor's certification. This will prevent any possible forgery, especially so if the facts are recorded similar to the record made of automobile titles. The driver of any vehicle, commercial or private, should be required to carry the certificate and photo attached, when he or she is operating the licensed vehicle. This will help to curb auto thieves and bandits as well as the promiscuous operation of autos and other vehicles by those who are incompetent or not licensed to do so.

Such strict regulations also will prohibit parents from permitting their pampered youngsters to operate high-powered autos. Recent news accounts of accidents and speeding by boys and girls of wealthy families indicates the necessity of restraint under legal regulations. Public safety demands the enactment of drastic measures to govern drivers of vehicles. In public transportation, the people also should be protected by compulsory liability insurance to cover any injury or property damage caused by any accident or vehicles of the city of St. Louis.

Living of Castleman Avenue.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial of Jan. 25 regarding street paving is in my judgment and experience absolutely correct.

Mr. Brooks of the Street and Sewers Department, when he speaks of hard pavement as having an average life of 20 years, must be referring to some pavement unknown to the City of St. Louis. I wish to refer him to the paving of Castleman avenue with white in 1924.

About October, 1927, I noticed through your columns that a delegation of city authorities was leaving on a trip to other cities to study street paving.

The best education that they could have obtained on this subject, especially at that time, would have been to remain in their own city and take the time to see how paving recommended by them holds up after a year or two of service.

On Oct. 14, 1927, your publication reported an article that I wrote regarding the condition of the white pavement on Castleman avenue from Grand to Tower Grove.

If Mr. Brooks can make an investigation of Castleman avenue and have it hold up another 15 years he is a wonder.

A Criticism of the Movies.

PAYING my weekly visits to the so-called leading show palaces of the city, I am becoming more disgusted with them every day. I believe Mr. Mencken is right in saying that the glittering moving picture palaces are dealing out maudlin to the morons. At least 90 per cent of the pictures offered by these theaters are stupid, unreal and childish pietizations of life of a small class.

One gets disgusted with the glaring display of luxuries of the darlings of society.

How romantic when the handsome young millionaire falls in love with a poor but beautiful young lady. Of course, the main requirement is that the hero be rich and handsome. Oh, how handsome some of our movie heroes are! I can imagine how the hearts of our well-painted flappers beat when the young millionaire appears in his high-powered imported limousine.

But not everybody is satisfied with being fed with maudlin. The beauty of the palaces do not counteract the stupidity of the pictures. Instead of glaring scenes and handsome but dumb actors why not introduce the elements of naturalism? Why the continual glorification of the go-getters? Or are they the national heroes? Do the producers think that living on small wages the people like to be fed with maudlin and dream about the luxuries of others?

Every self-respecting and progressive minded person ought to be offended and disgusted with these pictures. There are such notions as pride, conviction and knowledge and even for amusement's sake I do not want to be fed with maudlin.

JESSE HOUSER.

MR. COOLIDGE TALKS TO THE POINT.

President Coolidge talked on his favorite topic in his final address to the business organization of the Government. The topic was economy in Government expenditures.

Pointing out that state and national governmental expenditures had risen since 1921 from $3,000,000,000 to nearly $8,000,000,000, Mr. Coolidge recognized necessary increases of government expenses in growing states and urged that the expenditures be kept down to the lowest basis of efficiency and economy. He declared that the present rate of governmental expenditure was a heavy burden on the national income, and a menace to prosperity.

The one essential thing, Mr. Coolidge said, to govern a modern economy is the budget system. Drawing a contrast between the methods of the Government before the budget system and afterwards, he demonstrated that it had proved effective in holding down expenditures and in directing Government revenues to things that were necessary, cutting off expenditure for needless and extravagant purposes.

Mr. Coolidge's advice is particularly applicable to the State of Missouri, which is conspicuously lacking in business organization and a budget system. Our State governmental organization is costly, being composed of a multiplicity of bureaus, many of them overlapping. This is conducive to wasteful extravagance. Even with the budget system, the expenditures could not be held within the strict lines of economical efficiency. Nothing but the lack of revenue prevents a maximum of useless expenditures.

Doubtless the State government needs more revenue to meet the demands of efficient State government, for our public institutions and particularly educational requirements. But the first necessary steps are governmental reorganization and the adoption of a sound budget system. This is the only way to measure accurately what revenue is needed.

Gov. Caulfield and the Legislature have taken action favoring these reforms. A joint committee of the Senate and House is at work on a plan of reform. The work of the committee, however, will be futile unless the majority of the Legislature is convinced that the reforms are necessary. Mr. Coolidge's talk and his testimony with regard to the effectiveness of the Federal budget should be influential with the State legislators.

Missouri will lag and her pressing needs will be neglected until business efficiency is established in the State government.

POMP AND PATHOS.

The celebration of former Kaiser Wilhelm's seventieth birthday was a blend of spectacular farce and pathos. The ex-emperor was clothed in all the trappings of imperial royalty, covered with decorations. He wore the uniform of the Royal Guards. He was surrounded by members of the Hohenzollern family, with a few royal and noble friends, clothed in their trappings and decorations. The etiquette of the court prevailed. In appearance it might have been a court fête at Potsdam, or at the Imperial castle at Berlin in the days of the ex-emperor's pomp and power.

In reality it was only a sham. Nothing was lacking except power. Between the days of the ex-emperor's power and today there are only sad memories of war, defeat and utter failure. The imperial palaces are now museums, where the relics of royal splendor are exhibited. The empire which Wilhelm ruled is a republic, where the people rule. The ex-emperor is a helpless exile, the pitiful survivor of a race of kings who played great parts in history.

It is a frank of fate that one of the former emperor's military leaders in his time of power is now at the head of the German republic and has done more than anyone else to stabilize it and to destroy all hope of the return of the Hohenzollern dynasty.

PERJURED TESTIMONY.

Perjury, a popular pastime in the courts of the land, by grace of which many a culprit has escaped punishment, seems to be falling into disfavor in nearby Illinois. A few days ago Federal Judge Lindley, in the course of the trial of Arlie Boswell and others, for conspiracy in Williamson County, took judicial notice of the unbelievable testimony of one of the defense witnesses, and ordered his arrest and put him under $10,000 bond to answer to the charge of perjury.

And now Madison County comes to notice with the indictment of four persons for perjury alleged to have been committed in the trial of a gangster for murder. Madison County! Of all places. Where, until very recently, trials of gangsters were unheard of, let alone prosecutions for perjury in a gangster's behalf. It used to be doubted whether any good thing could come out of Madison County in the way of upholding the might and majesty of the law. But, believe it or not, they are getting after perjurers over there.

So some good thing has come out of Madison County. It should spread. St. Louis would not be hurt by following Madison County's example. Here, as elsewhere, nothing is more common, or more obvious, than the perjury that is committed in almost every criminal trial.

Perjured testimony nearly always betrays itself and is overborne by the weight, if not the volume, of the proof that it contradicts. Not infrequently juries get the blame for acquittals which are due to the unjustified credence which they, inexperienced in such things, accord to perjured testimony. Nothing is calculated to have as good an effect on perjured witnesses as prosecutions for perjury.

DEEP STUFF.

It may be that our time will be chiefly noted for what is now happening in the world of physics—whatever it may be! When Einstein's theory of relativity was proclaimed, the old frontiers of physics were shattered and scholars have been feeling their way to an entirely new conception of the laws that govern the universe and even of the nature of the universe. Now comes Einstein with the proposition that the laws which control gravitation and those which control electricity, heretofore considered distinct, are in reality one universal law. And his disciple, Prof. Eddington of Cambridge, noting the unreality of the electron, plunges into a mysterious ocean of something he calls "psi," which is supposed to be the reality underneath or the nearest we can get to reality. But just as the electron has been debunked as a mere figment of human imagination, so, thinks Prof. Eddington, psi will prove to be unreal and fugitive stuff.

It was said of Einstein's theory of relativity that only twelve men in the world could understand it.

Einstein's new findings, which have been compressed into three pages of mathematical formulae, is likewise caviar to the general. Only 20 men in the world are believed to be able to comprehend them. Referring to Prof. Eddington's contribution, Sir Oliver Lodge freely admits that he did not understand a word of it and cries out, "May Heaven help the readers of the Times," referring to the London Times, where Prof. Eddington's discussion was published. It is comforting to the man in the street that some of the greatest scientific minds find themselves baffled by the new excursions into mysterious regions of higher mathematics, but it does not lessen his curiosity as to the meaning of the developments. Where shall we find a Huxley for the new Darwin, Einstein?

ORGANIZED LABOR PROTESTS.

Organized labor in St. Louis has formally protested the repeal of the Workmen's Compensation Act. It speaks feelingly on the subject, and with good reason. It knows, of its own knowledge, the desperate experience of the victims of industrial accident prior to the enactment of the law.

The facts upon which this law is predicated are well known. Stated statistically they are: Forty per cent of industrial accidents are due to the fault of neither the employer nor employee. Thirty per cent are due to the unintentional fault of the employee. Until compensation legislation appeared these two classes of victims were without recourse. There was no provision to meet their needs under the common or statutory law.

In the remaining thirty per cent of accident cases, where the employer was at fault, in part or in whole, the victim could bring action in court. How industry fought such suits is well known. If and when the victim did finally win a large share of his recovery went to his lawyer—from a third to a half of the judgment being the usual contingent fee.

These facts and many others were fully presented in the debate on the compensation bill two years ago by W. R. Schneider of St. Louis as a member of the House. But statistics do not touch the tragedy of industrial accident. When the support of a family is disabled, whether by his own fault, or his employer's fault, or nobody's fault, the need for compensation is immediate. This legislation meets that need. It meets all claims arising from the source of accident. It charges the cost to society as a whole, which is manifestly just. It is humanitarian, but it is also sound economics.

How compensation legislation has justified itself is a matter of history. The first act of this kind was passed in Germany 45 years ago. In one form or another it has spread all over the civilized world. In no country and in no State of the United States where enacted has this law been repealed.

We cannot believe it will be repealed in Missouri.

HIGHER EDUCATION IN MISSOURI.

There is no more serious matter before the present Missouri Legislature than that of higher education. The Post-Dispatch has repeatedly charged that Missouri is not holding her own in this vital field with the surrounding states, and it has the figures to prove it. Here are the appropriations made for higher education in the present biennium by twelve valley states, including Missouri:

Arkansas	1,735,125.00
Missouri	2,329,909.16
Nebraska	4,148,220.25
Kansas	5,715,241.00
Indiana	6,947,000.00
Oklahoma	7,474,315.31
Minnesota	9,127,988.21
Wisconsin	9,330,729.81
Ohio	11,912,302.39
Iowa	11,162,896.95
Illinois	11,755,125.00
Michigan	14,141,377.20

Neither the population figures nor those of assessable wealth justify Missouri's low standing in this respect. The population estimates for July 1, 1928, and their assessable wealth as of last year are as follows:

Illinois	7,396,000	$21,191,000,000
Ohio	6,829,000	17,553,000,000
Michigan	4,591,000	10,890,000,000
Missouri	3,523,000	9,612,000,000
Indiana	3,176,000	8,337,000,000
Wisconsin	2,953,000	7,545,000,000
Minnesota	2,722,000	8,237,000,000
Iowa	2,428,000	10,197,000,000
Oklahoma	2,426,000	3,627,000,000
Arkansas	1,944,000	5,520,000,000
Kansas	1,835,000	5,995,000,000
Nebraska	1,408,000	5,128,000,000

The consequences upon Missouri of such a pinhead policy are disastrous. They affect culture in the state, and this reacts upon all education. It lessens the caliber of legislators, and puts education before these as a mendicant. Meanwhile, higher education in Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and Michigan, becomes the pride of those states. The Post-Dispatch urges the present legislature to set the excellent example of putting higher education upon a new plane. It can be so doing improve the estate of Missouri herself.

SANDINO.

In the magazine Time is the latest chapter of the Sandino story. This unconstructed Nicaraguan rebel, who has been conducting open warfare against the United States Government for more than a year, still is magnificently defiant of all efforts to force or induce him to capitulate. Since the Marines have failed to capture him or quell his resistance, someone conceived the idea of making a sentimental appeal to Sandino through his mother. She wrote him a letter begging him to surrender. With her letter were sent messages from Gen. Feland, Marine commander, and Admiral Sellers, advising the young man to lay down his arms.

Weeks elapsed before a reply came from the fastnesses of Northern Nicaragua where Sandino holds forth. Sandino's letter, addressed to Admiral Sellers, reads in part as follows:

Although you say that a continuation of my armed resistance serves no purpose, my resistance alone will bring the benefits to which you allude.... To arrive at an effective peace settlement it is indispensable that the American forces withdraw from Nicaragua.... Patriotism compels me to repel force by force.

This modern counterpart of Aguirre and Geronimo compels admiration. Battling against overwhelming odds, hunted and harried with all the implements of modern warfare, he has steadfastly maintained the ideal for which he took the field. Added to his enemies is President Moncada, Sandino's fellow-countryman, whose desire for office overcame his resistance to American intervention. Be he deemed bandit, hero or fanatic, Sandino is a first-class fighting man.

CAPTAIN COURAGEOUS.

A Tunnel Under the English Channel

For many years it has been proposed to connect England with France by a Channel tunnel, but the project has always encountered military and naval opposition; English newspaper points out that danger from such a tunnel is remote and hypothetical; the real danger of attack is in the air.

From the Manchester Guardian.

THE project of a channel tunnel is again before the public, and, as usual, the public is inclined to favor the idea. Indeed, so far as lay opinion is concerned, hardly a voice in opposition can be heard. It always has been so, and probably always will be so, but the tunnel will not necessarily be built on that account. Indeed, so long as naval and military opinion remains opposed to it the chances very strongly are that it will not be built. Nevertheless a tunnel of some kind will be built some day. It is one of those obvious improvements upon nature, like the Suez or Panama Canals, that simply ask to be done.

In fact, it would have been done many years ago if France and England had happened to be one country instead of two.

There is no engineering or financial difficulty comparable with the difficulties that faced the promoters of the Suez and Panama Canals. The only special difficulty—and it has hitherto proved insurmountable—is that the tunnel, like so many other tools of civilization, can be utilized for the purposes of war. Even that would not be decisive were it not that it could be used with greater effect by our enemies than by ourselves. At least that has always been the argument, and one supposes, unwillingly, that there must have been something in it or so many distinguished soldiers and sailors would not have put it forward. For all that anybody knows to the contrary the argument still holds good in the opinion of the technical experts of the Admiralty and the War Office.

It is all the greater pity, therefore, that the official argument had not been fully explained. In 1872 the British Government stated that it had no "objection in principle" to the building of a tunnel, and this tolerance lasted for more than 10 years. A Joint Committee of the Lords and Commons then agreed that a tunnel would be "expedient," largely on military grounds, but could not agree in any further detail upon the nature of this military objection.

In the same way, the most recent decision—that of the Committee of Imperial Defense, which reported to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in 1924—that a tunnel would involve "an element of danger," the nature of the danger has not been stated. One would have liked to know precisely how a tunnel would increase the danger of invasion. It is obvious that if an enemy were in possession of both ends the tunnel would be of the greatest military value to him. But how would he obtain possession? It must either be done, as Lord Wolseyley feared it would be, in a surprise attack or by the gradual regular military and naval operations. Lord Wolseyley's supposition that "England, as a nation, could be destroyed without any warning whatever, when Europe was in a condition of profound peace," is a fantastic supposition and would be universally so regarded nowadays, even if it were not so obvious 50 years ago that wars of this kind do not happen.

But if the British end of the tunnel cannot be taken by surprise attack, is it any more possible to take it by regular fighting? Nothing would be simpler than to make the tunnel destructible by either side,

These, broadly, are the arguments by which the promoters of the tunnel scheme have always defended their project. The position has been altered since the Great War by the discovery that Great Britain is no longer an island. If this phrase has any meaning it means that the sea is no longer an impediment to attack—that the danger is from the air.

The enemy which seeks to attack us in our homes will do so by means of aircraft, by the use of bombs and poison gas, and, perhaps, by the aerial transport of troops. Aircraft increase the element of surprise, but not, one would have supposed, to the extent of making it possible to capture the end of the tunnel before we knew what was happening. What they do is to expose us in time of war to all, or nearly all, the dangers of a land frontier without, in the absence of a tunnel, giving us full and free communication with our neighbor in the event—the possibility of which is somewhat overlooked—of his being friendly or neutral. If we are to be exposed to all the dangers of aerial warfare just as though we were a land power, why should we not make this underground link between the French and British shores, and so become a land power in reality? After all, the only danger which a tunnel can conceivably present is a French danger.

A few months ago the Government were willing to approve a naval agreement with France which was only explicable upon the assumption that the possibility of being at war with France need no longer be entertained. If that is still the Government's conviction it is one which could be more innocently expressed by an agreement to build a channel tunnel. The dangers of a tunnel are remote and hypothetical. Its advantages are immediate and certain. It would be a stimulus to trade and, even more, to personal intercourse. It is not a matter in which the Government should take a financial interest, but if there are enough people willing to finance the undertaking as an investment the Government might at least take the responsibility of giving them permission.

CAPTAIN COURAGEOUS.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.

ON the top floor of an old building overlooking the Navy Hospital, overlooking an ancient brewery in Potomac Park, one of the greatest detectives in the world.

His name is Lumsden, and he is a doctor in the public health service.

Twenty years ago the Government asked him on typhoid fever. Since that time he has been chasing the bug in every corner of the country. His experience with the dramatic adventures of Sherlock Holmes.

DR. LUMSDEN is a bachelor. In his own office there is always a bag packed for instant travel. There is another of his apartment. When a typhoid epidemic hits a town and the Mayor yells for help, the detective hits the trail. Washington sees him no more until he has tracked the typhoid germ to its lair, notified the local authorities, and told them what to do about it.

His method of operation is simple. First, he ascertains what the people who have typhoid ate and drank during the probable period in which they became infected. Making a list of these articles of food and drink, he observes that all of the patients ate or drank some one thing—milk from a certain dairy, water from a certain source, oysters, celery, lettuce, or some other raw vegetable.

Then the chase begins. Sooner or later he finds a bed of vermin in a contaminated stream, a dairy farm on which someone has just returned, or a dead or dying animal, or some other possible source of the epidemic. His recommendations are then made to the city authorities.

His work has encouraged cities to eliminate typhoid fever as one of the ills of man. Water, milk, raw vegetables and shell fish have been made unsuitable for the needs of the city.

So successful has Dr. Lumsden been out in so far as cities are concerned, that he is directing his attention to the country districts and hopes to accomplish the same thing here.

The scattered population and lack of centralized authority, however, make his work more difficult in these regions.

The Italia Quarrel

From Two Angles
TRAGEDY OF THE ITALIA
JAVIER JUDIC. (Appleton).
KRASSIN. By Maurice Par
(Macaulay.)

THE controversy over the ill-fated dirigible Italia, lost in the Arctic last May 25, now has become a stage where books are written about it. Those upon the subject here are the first, and as a sequel to columns on the subject of newspaper discussion, this country and abroad.

And French journalists have engaged one another in a duel of the pen, although no actual battle has yet taken place. The first books give the two sides of the quarrel, for such it has become, and an interesting basis for comparison is offered.

On the one side, however, is the splendid work done by the Russian, Krassin. That remarkable, built for grinding its way through ice of four-foot thickness in Russian harbors, met and rescued vast flocks of 10-foot 12-foot flocks in the Arctic sea, and survived the air crash, men who survived the air crash, with a rough and ready crew, its decks piled with supplies, there were still a few for scientific observations and a library of 2000 books.

On the other side, however, is the French journal, the Krassin on its return to France, Norway, and obtained material from interviews with Samoilovitch, head of the expedition, and members of the crew. Krassin's account is sufficient to satisfy the reader's curiosity, to satisfy the reader's curiosity, to satisfy the reader's curiosity.

He has a stirring story of the vessel's slow crushing progress through the ice, and of the incredible flying feats of the aviator, Samoilovitch.

CHARLES M. WILSON, VETERAN

Printer, Dies at Age of 80

His father at One Time Was Court Physician for Queen Victoria.

Charles M. Wilson, a printer in St. Louis for more than 50 years, died last night at Barnes Hospital of infirmities of age. He was 80 years old and lived with a daughter, Mrs. Maude Davidson of 3114A St. Louis avenue.

Mr. Wilson, the son of the late Charles M. Wilson, at one time court physician for Queen Victoria, was born in London and was brought to the United States when he was 5 years old. He came to St. Louis as a young man and worked as printer on various local newspapers and trade journals. Because his retirement several years ago he was a proofreader on the Post-Dispatch.

Besides Mrs. Davidson, he is survived by another daughter, Mrs. J. Edgar Lewis, and three sons, Charles, Arthur and James T. Wilson of St. Louis and James T. Wilson of St. Louis. One of five grand-children is Lieutenant-Commander E. Davidson of the United States Navy. Funeral services are tentatively set for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the undertaking establishment, 2107 North Grand boulevard. Burial will be in Lakewood Park cemetery.

Byrd Detailed Flight By Radio to Men Behind

peaks about 50 miles to south of Scott's nunataks. BYRD.

Next: "Discovered 14 mountain peaks sticking up above snow. Solid rock looked good after so many weeks of nothing but ice and snow. Now headed back to Little America. Got radio several hours ago that Bolling had arrived. BYRD."

It was not long after this that Byrd came in from the eastward over Framheim and turning at some distance from the base, went out over the bay where the two ships were lying side by side. As he came above them, Balchen stuck the plane's nose down in a dive and then zoomed up again and went on to the landing field.

Consternation at Base.

Those in the base hut had been listening eagerly for five hours to the plane. Berkner, the radio operator, reading off the messages as he received them. We were sitting on bags or standing about smoking and discussing the flight and its great results with happy excitement.

Larry Gould, with the largest pipe on the continent, was lying in his bunk contentedly smoking. Suddenly the signals ran up to a shriek and died and Berkner straightened up in his chair.

"The motor speeded up and the plane went into a dive and I can't hear them any more," he said tensely. "I don't know what happened."

There was sudden silence in the hut. Gould bounded from his cot and went over to Berkner. A dive. That could only mean one thing. And the signals had quit. Had they crashed? Could anything be done? All these thoughts flashed through the minds of men to whom this flight meant as much individually as it did to Byrd himself. It was a heartrending moment. For nearly five minutes they sat motionless, not daring to speak the things they thought and then one of them jumped a foot in the air and yelled "There's that blankety blank motor now."

There was a rush to the front door from which a narrow path is cut upwards through the snow. It has two or three slippery steps in it and as the first man, Joe Rucker, hit them he slipped and fell on his face and the whole crowd fell over him and piled up. The kicking, scrambling heap was untangled in a few moments and they ran out to see the plane circling not far above them, coming in for a landing. Hats were thrown in the air, men danced and jumped up and down with glee and waved their arms in a frenzy of delight.

Byrd, Balchen and June were all right and safely back on a trip which was a test of all that Byrd has been preparing to do, with a remarkable exploration record made in the short space of five hours tucked away. It was something for which to be thankful.

When the plane gracefully glided down and landed easily on the snow and taxied to a stop there was a rush for it, and hands were shaken as the three men jumped out of the plane.

Then came an explanation of that dramatic ending of the signals. June was working on his set and when the plane went into a dive looked out, saw that the plane was over the ships and began to reel his antenna. That ended communication that almost stopped the hearts of a few of those who did not know what had happened.

Dock Made of Ice.

In the meantime, the work of ice breaking had been going on faster with the aid of the Eleanor Bolling. Its sharp nose was pushed against the ice a short distance from the City of New York and when its engines were turned over at full speed, it sliced through the thick soft ice like a knife through butter. When in as far as necessary, the ship turned and cut along the front of the low part of the bay ice, slicing it off in a straight sharp line for 150 yards until a perfect dock 40 yards wide had been made. It has been named Pier One.

Boy and stern lines were taken over on the bay ice close under the barrier and the Bolling was warped into place and additional lines taken up to the barrier itself to take the strain off the snow dock. We need that landing place badly and don't want to haul it out.

This was all done in a little more than an hour and then the City of New York warped into place outside the Bolling and sent additional lines ashore. Peterson radioed out to the base: "Tell Commander Byrd that the Bolling is docked at Pier One." And that was that.

The ships now are lying as snugly as if in an enclosed basin. There is not the slightest movement of the water, at least no waves, and the ice is not moving out fast enough to make the situation untenable if it crashed in this way. The probabilities are that it would go out without much pressure against this side, for there seems to be a light current in the other direction. But if it did begin to press there is room for the Bolling with its powerful engine to push away quickly to safety.

Distance to Base Reduced.

The great advantage of being alongside the dock here is that it not only gives us a place where the ships can be unloaded safely and quickly, but also decreases the distance to the base to five miles whereas the old and dangerous route was about eight miles. A straight line to the base would be only about four miles, but the trail is being made well inland to avoid crevasses near the coast.

Strom, Braathen and Erickson went out to make the first trail and mark it. Braathen driving his dog team. He had been over this route once before with Commander Byrd when the first trip inland was made, to select a site for the base. Erickson led on foot and without skis to look for crevasses. He had a rope about him and was followed by Strom who also was fastened by the rope to both Erickson and Braathen. They took every precaution at the instruction of the commander because their mission was to find any crevasses on the route if they possibly could so that when the dog teams began to haul loads they need not fear falling into one of these bottomless pits of icy darkness. None was encountered, however, and the dogs are lugging stuff in again with the possibility of making three or more trips instead of two each day. The trail is a little soft now but it should improve steadily.

Unloading of Bolling Begins.

As soon as both ships were grounded, the work of unloading the Bolling began. It had been planned to put part of its load on the New York if necessary, but this new position has obviated what would have meant a double handling of the cargo. The boxes of blasting powder and the caps were taken ashore first and placed well up on the barrier out of the way. Then coal bins and boxes of food and other stores were cleaned away from around the Fokker, fuselage crate and wing which was on the forward hatch. As fast as the stores were placed on the ice docks they were loaded on sleds. An anchor was sunk in the snow up on the barrier at the head of the incline and a block and endless fall was rigged to it and taken back to the Bolling's forward winch. Two or three heavy sled loads, one sled of which men could barely haul up, are fastened to this fall, the winch rattles and up it goes to the top to be unloaded and stacked until the dog teams pick it up.

It is so much better than what we had hoped for that everybody is working with a grin despite the heavy labor.

The crews of both ships have been divided into 12-hour shifts, and the work goes on day and night.

The dog teams are hauling from 700 to 1000 pounds each trip, depending on the number of dogs in the team and the whole organization is working like a machine. It is probably the most remarkable sight in this respect ever seen in the Antarctic.

need, the executive and legislative branches of the Government, with the backing of the people, have inserted a golden page in our history."

The President went into considerable detail regarding the manner in which the budget idea finally had been accepted by Congress and the personnel of the executive departments. He gave particular credit to the "co-ordinators" in Washington and throughout the country who have shown the various departments how to co-operate.

As a contrasting picture to the one which he had painted of the 1921 conditions, he went into somewhat elaborate detail as to how business had recovered during the past eight years and declared that the closing months of 1928 and the opening weeks of 1929 "have seen

American industry and commerce at the highest point ever attained in time of peace."

"I do not claim," he continued, that action by the National Government deserves all the credit for the rapid restoration of our country's business from the great depression of 1921, or for the steady progress that has since taken place.

Much Yet to Be Done.

"Unquestionably, however, wise governmental policies and particularly, wise economy in government expenditures with steady reduction of the national debt have had a dominant influence.

"The people gained confidence in themselves because of the increasing confidence in their government. The reduction of taxation made possible by cutting down of government expenditures left more income in the hands of the people, enabling them to increase their expenditures and thereby not only to obtain greater comforts but to add to the demand for commodities. It likewise helped to provide funds for building up the capital of the country and augmenting its productive capacity."

In conclusion, the President warned that much remained to be done along the lines of "constructive economy." He also pointed out that while federal taxes have been greatly reduced in the last eight years, State and local taxes have rapidly increased.

Increase in Government Costs.

"In spite of all our efforts for economy our great savings in interest, and our reduction in taxes, the expenses of the Federal Government during the last year are showing a tendency to increase," he said.

"A short time ago there were pending before Congress and seriously being advocated bills which would have doubled our annual cost of government. At the present time, committees have reported, and there are on the calendar of Congress, bills which would cost more than $1,000,000,000. Had there not been a constant insistence upon a policy of rigid economy, many of these bills would have become law.

"It would be a great mistake to suppose that we can continue our national prosperity with the attendant blessings which it confers upon the people, unless we continue to insist upon constructive economy in government. The margin between prosperity and depression is always very small. A decrease of less than 10 per cent in the income of the nation would produce a deficit in our present budget.

"The costs of State and local governments are rapidly mounting. From $3,900,000,000 in 1921 the National Industrial Conference Board estimates that they reached $7,821,000,000 in 1927. This is such a heavy drain on the earnings of the people that it is the greatest menace to the continuance of prosperity. It is a red flag warning us of the danger of depression and a repetition of the disaster which overtook the country in the closing days of 1920.

"It is a warning that should be heeded by every one entrusted with the expenditure of appropriation of public funds. It is the reason for which further commitments by the National Government for any new projects not absolutely necessary should be faithfully restrained."

You NEVER have to leave your pride at home

Most Americans feel that nothing is too good for their families and themselves. That's only natural. And because of the day and age we live in, this feeling applies especially to their automobiles.

Yet a large proportion of them do not want to pay up into the thousands to get fine automobiles now. Some day many of them will be glad to. But in the meantime, they're progressing. They want to step up in motor car quality. Just any car cannot possibly satisfy them. Then what are these up-and-coming Americans to do?

Fortunately, now there is an answer. It is provided by Oakland's latest creation—the New Pontiac Big Six. Now big car qualities come within the reach of nearly everyone. Now you never have to leave your pride at home.

You can drive a New Pontiac Big Six and be proud of the big car manner in which it performs. It has big car speed. It develops big car power. Its big, new L-head engine produces both. Big car smoothness results from its dynamically balanced, counter-weighted crankshaft, Harmonic Balancer, accurately balanced "line of drive" and the G-M-R cylinder head.

You can be proud of its style and beauty. Fisher created magnificent new bodies to assure that. And you can be proud of its luxury. It offers the deep-seated comfort and the charming appointments for which bodies by Fisher have won worldwide fame.

Yes, the Pontiac Big Six represents an innovation. It fills a place that no car has ever filled before. It brings to progressive Americans what they've long been seeking—all the advantages of a big car without big car expense.

Prices $745 and up, f. o. b. Pontiac, plus delivery charges. Bumpers and rear fender guards regular equipment at slight extra cost. Check Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices—they include lowest handling charges. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

ECONOMIC RECORD AND FINDS IT GOOD

about $5,000,000,000. The interest charge alone was more than $1,000,000,000, and our outstanding indebtedness was nearly $24,000,000,000.

"The business of the country was prostrate. Its different branches of agriculture, commerce, banking, manufacturing and transportation were suffering from severe depression.

"Employment was difficult to secure. Wages were declining. Five million people were out of work. The price of securities, even of Government bonds, was very low. It was difficult to find any market for commodities. Confidence in our entire economic structure was shaken. Progress had stopped.

"It is easy to see what the condition of the people would be under such circumstances. Those who had property, even though it was much diminished in value, could take care of themselves, as they always can. But to those who were carrying on business with borrowed capital and had outstanding notes and mortgages there seemed nothing ahead but ruin. Wage earners and their families were faced with want and misery. The cause of this distress was not difficult to ascertain. The country had been living beyond its means. The savings of previous years were being exhausted, principally through Government extravagance.

those who are able to provide it could well afford to be charged with considering nothing but the material side of life, with advocating a penurious and chessy-parading policy, and with neglecting to supply the public needs. If a remedy could be found, when it was put into operation, business would revive, profits would increase, employment would be plentiful, wages would be good, the distress of the people would be relieved, and a general condition of contentment and prosperity would prevail. Whatever criticisms there might be against those who had labored to secure this result, the satisfactory condition of the country would be a sufficient answer and a sufficient reward.

"Seemingly without effort, but actually by hard and effective work, the change was wrought. Each of the succeeding years brought an ever-increasing improvement in the business of government. Expenditures diminished until 1927, when, exclusive of the amount applied to debt reduction, they reached a point below the $2,900,000,000 mark. This was $2,900,000,000 below 1921. Billions were cut from the public debt with a large saving of interest. The first tax reduction came in November, 1921, and was followed by three succeeding reductions. Funds were saved to meet the cost of our much-needed public improvements, which had been in abeyance during the war period. Short-time notes and long-time bonds were paid off and refunded at lower rates.

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD

Safety

ONE of the outstanding features of the new Ford is its mechanical, internal-expanding six-brake system.

This is unusually reliable and effective in action because the braking surfaces of all six brakes are fully enclosed. There is no possibility of mud, water, sand, road dirt or grease entering the brake mechanism or getting between the bands and drum and impairing brake performance.

The use of steel forgings wherever there is a possibility of wear in the chassis of the car, the sturdy steel body construction, balance, ease of operation and control and a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield are other important safety features.

Comfort

You have a feeling of mental comfort in driving the new Ford because you are sure of its mechanical reliability. No matter how long the trip or rough or devious the roadway, you know it will bring you safely, quickly to the journey's end.

Physically, too, you will feel fresh and relaxed in the new Ford because it is such a roomy, comfortable car. Seats are wide and deeply cushioned, with backs designed to conform to the curves of the body.

Even on comparatively rough stretches, there are no hard bumps or jolts, nor exaggerated bouncing up and down. The four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers and transverse springs take up or absorb the force of every unevenness in the road

SERVICE

"IT HAS always been our belief that a sale does not complete the transaction between us and the buyer, but establishes a new obligation on us to see that his car gives him service. We are as much interested in his economical operation of the car as he is in our economical manufacture of it.

"For that reason we have installed a system of controlled service to take care of all Ford car needs in an economical and improved manner. We wish all users of Ford cars to know what they are entitled to in this respect, so that they may readily avail themselves of this service."

Henry Ford

low because of the established Ford policy of doing business at a small margin of profit.

Beauty

The new Ford is distinguished by its quiet simplicity of line and air of sturdy strength. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in motor car designing. A particularly pleasing feature is a choice of beautiful colors in all body types without additional cost.

The upholstery is of woolen material, rich and luxurious, yet long-wearing. Fenders are heavy and gracefully contoured. Instrument panel—door handles—window lifts—interior trimming and finish—all reveal a quality of material and a careful workmanship unusual in a low-price car.

Ease of Control

Another outstanding feature of the new Ford is its ease of operation and control.

The steering wheel answers to the touch of a finger. Gears shift silently, smoothly. Brakes take hold quickly, firmly even on rain-swept pavements. Quick acceleration and alert speed are especially appreciated in traffic and emergencies. A space little longer than the car itself is all you need for parking.

All of these things simplify the mechanics of motoring and add a great deal to the joy and comfort of motoring. Particularly to a woman, they mean driving without strain or fatigue.

Smooth Speed

Everywhere you go, you note the alert, capable performance of the new Ford. You can judge its acceleration by the way it gets away in traffic. A smooth stretch on the open road gives a revealing measure of its speed. The way it climbs the hills in high is an indication of its abundant power.

The new Ford will do 55 to 65 miles an hour, which is probably faster than you will ever need to go. Far more important is the way it rolls along at 35 and 40 and 45. This is your average driving speed and you can maintain it smoothly, easily, comfortably for hours in the new Ford.

Reliability

before it reaches the body, frame and chassis of the car.

The new Ford is reliable in performance because of its carefully planned simplicity of design and the enduring quality that has been built into every part.

Throughout, it has been made to give you many thousands of miles of pleasant, enjoyable motoring at a minimum of trouble and expense. From every part of the world come letters from Ford owners commenting on this reliability, and giving specific data on unusual performance.

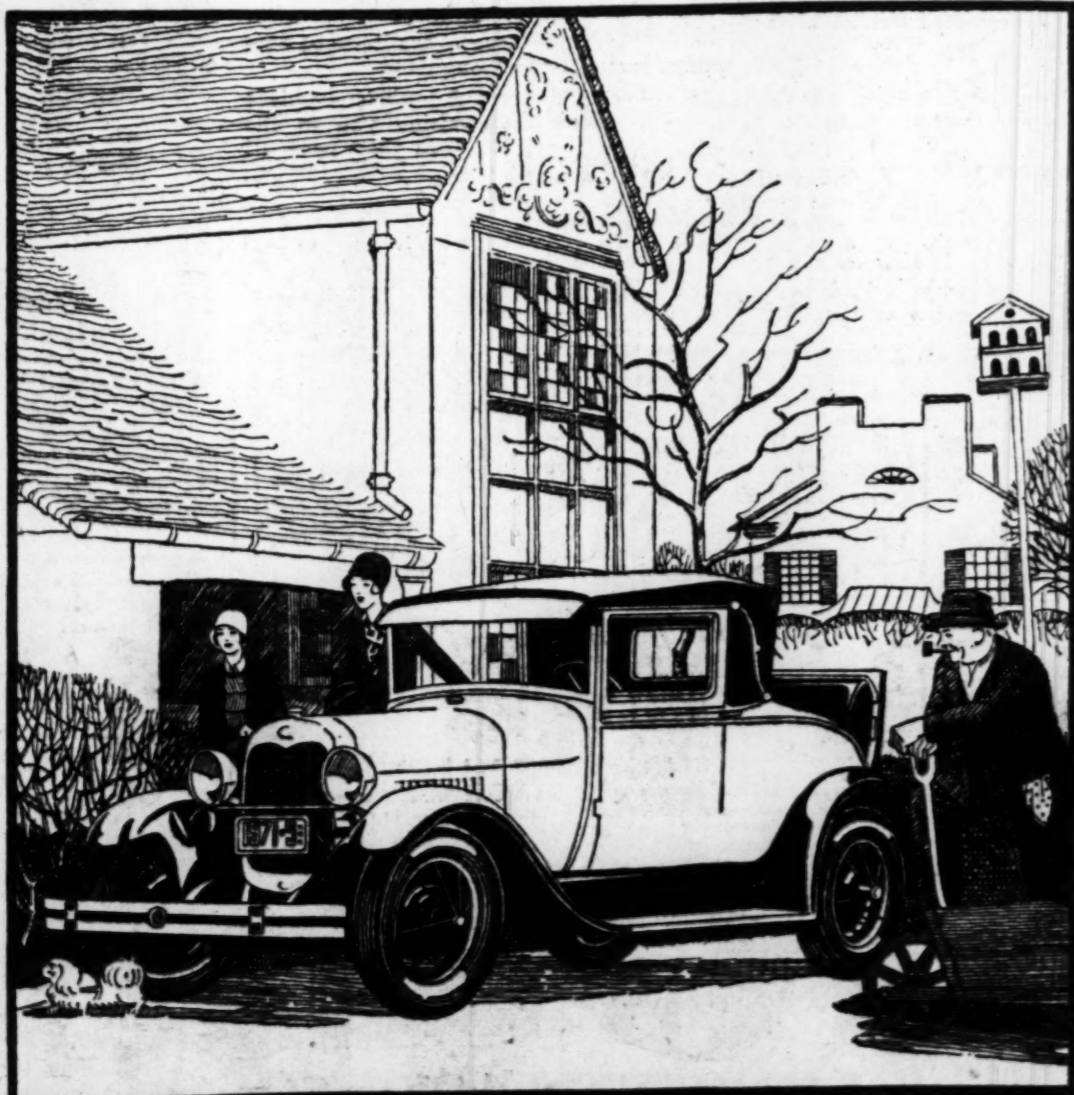

Thousands of the new Fords have been driven more than 50,000 miles in the past year. Some, used night and day, have passed the 100,000-mile mark. There is no telling how far they will go. The average life of the Model T was seven years. We believe this new car will do better than that.

Economy

The new Ford is an economical car to own and drive because of the low cost of operation and up-keep. It averages more than 20 miles per gallon of gasoline and the cost of tires and oil is also low.

Low first cost, the security of a fair trade-in value, the availability of Ford dealers, and close supervision of service are additional reasons for the economy of the new Ford.

The cost of new parts is also

CHARGES TEXAS G. O. P. PROTECTED HOTELS

Fort Worth Postmastership Aspirant Says Creager Kept Dry Agents Away.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Charges that H. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman for Texas, several years ago "protected" some Texas hotels from dry raiders were made today by Lloyd Hill of Fort Worth before the Senate committee investigating disposition of patronage in Texas.
Hill, who was an unsuccessful candidate for postmaster at Fort Worth in 1921, told the committee that it was "generally assumed" that candidates for postmaster were expected to pay 30 per cent of their salary to the Republican organization.
He said a bellboy at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas told him that Creager protected a place where drinks could be obtained. He also said he understood the Metropolitan Hotel in Fort Worth received "protection." When a prohibition officer raided any of these places, Hill continued, he was suspended.
"As soon as P. V. Petty of Dallas, a former State prohibition director, began to raid the places he was removed," he said.
"That was a good way to improve the service, was it?" Senator McKellar (Dem.), Tennessee, asked.
Hill said he thought conditions since had improved.
The Texas was asked if his testimony today caused him any trouble. He said he "expected trouble" as a result of his statements.

PEACE RIVER, Alta., Jan. 29.—After a 10-day siege of the land office here in sub-zero weather, G. Turcotte of Falher today owned a homestead.
The homestead, situated in the Falher district, had been under lease but recently was thrown open to filing, to be awarded to the first applicant on the opening of the office yesterday.
Turcotte, who was assisted in his vigil by a partner named Ethier, almost lost at the last minute when Corporal McDonald of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who had been sent to the scene to preserve order, made him remove his hand from the knob so the door of the land office could be opened.

Texas had contributed to the Republican fund in that State was given by Leonard Withington, secretary of the Texas Republican Committee.
In his statement Withington said total expenses of his headquarters maintained in Dallas were $25,000 a year. Of $600 postal employees in the State, he said, $22 had contributed notes to the Republican fund from Sept. 1, 1921, to Dec. 31, 1928. Of these 222 failed to pay their pledges. Pledges from these office holders amounted to $96,462. In the same period 457 office holders made cash donations of $10,109, Creager Withington said, "made no personal appointments, but has adopted a fixed policy which has been approved by the State organization."
"At no time," he said, "is any contribution made by the applicant taken into consideration nor is Creager informed as to the status of the applicant as to contributions."
Postmasters at Fort Worth and Austin have been regular contributors, Withington said, but John Philip, postmaster at Dallas, has paid nothing on a note made three years ago pledging $200.

WHEN you build or buy a home, or remodel your present one, make sure that your investment is protected against loss through rusting metallic equipment. Use the rust-proof metals, Copper, Brass and Bronze, wherever possible.

Almost to a man the leading architects of the country advise the use of permanent materials in home construction. The long experience of these experts has convinced them that rust-proof construction is the most economical in the long run. As N. Max Dunning, famous Chicago architect, says:

"Insist on the use of materials of high quality and permanence. Copper and Brass in their many uses certainly fall under this classification."

If your home is equipped with Brass pipe, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures, you need never worry about repair or replacement expenses. These materials cannot rust. They will serve without attention for the life of the house.

Write our Building Service Department for additional information.

Considering their life-long service and their absolute protection against rust, Copper, Brass and Bronze are not expensive when in the construction of small homes.

U. S. TO CULTIVATE
INFLUENZA GERMS
IN HUNT FOR CUREPublic Health Service Plans to Take Cultures From Ill Persons and Reproduce Bacteria.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The Public Health Service plans to cultivate influenza germs in an effort to find a cure for the disease. In this not only is dependence placed on the aid of the service personnel but on that of members of their families—if they contract influenza.

In that event, Surgeon-General Cummings has requested that the hygienic laboratory be notified and if the sufferers volunteer, cultures will be taken from the nose and throat of the persons ill. The germs are to be reproduced in specially prepared media. Inoculation later of animals with the germs is regarded as a probability and inoculation of persons as a possibility. Before persons were inoculated, however, ample safeguards would be established.

"Since 1918 influenza germs have been reproduced by the Rockefeller Institute in New York, but the actual germ—or germs—which causes the disease has not been isolated. It is thought it is small enough to pass through a filter and that it is shaped like a rod.

Influenza and Pneumonia Raging in British Cities.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Influenza and pneumonia today continued to take a big toll in many parts of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. The big cities were the worst sufferers, notably Glasgow, Liverpool and Belfast.

At Belfast influenza was raging unchecked. Doctors were sorely pressed and glad to accept any help that the Red Cross detachment might offer.

The Belfast Telegraph printed four columns of obituary notices. Grave diggers were working overtime and gardeners were employed to help them. Among the deaths within a week were those of the Rev. Robert Jackson, his brother and two sisters.

The unemployed were being recruited to help the grave diggers in Glasgow. Of 1112 deaths there last week 654 were due either to pneumonia or influenza. At Paisley, a few miles distant, the death rate last week was 43 per 1000. More than half of these deaths were due to influenza.

Fifty schools in Liverpool were closed. A large proportion of the city's deaths was certified as being due to influenza and pneumonia.

Police announced today that the city ordinance which forbids parking in the "bottle-neck" stretch of Lindell boulevard between Chan-row street, but have made no arrests because "no parking" signs have not been placed. The signs now are posted.

"When a sweet tempts me,
I light a Lucky Strike."

Rosalie Adele Nelson
Rosalie Adele Nelson,
The Original Lucky Poster Girl

"I'm a 'Lucky Girl' because I've found a new way to keep my figure trim. Whenever the desire for a sweet tempts me, I light up a Lucky Strike. It's remarkable how nicely the toasted flavor of Luckies satisfies me. Toasting has taken out all impurities—all that is left is the thrilling Lucky aroma. I certainly am lucky to be 'The Lucky Girl.'"

ROSALIE ADELE NELSON

THE modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Thousands are doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. Athletes, who must keep fit, testify that Luckies steady their nerves and do not harm their physical condition. That's why Luckies have always been the favorite of those men who want to keep in tip-top shape and realize the danger of overweight. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

"It's toasted"

"BABBY" HARTNETT MARRIED
Catcher of Chicago Cubs Weds Miss Martha Marshall.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, catcher of the Chicago Cubs, was married yesterday to Miss Martha Marshall, daughter of Charles Marshall of Chicago. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Dennon at the Church of St. Mary's of the Lake. They will spend their honeymoon at Catalina Island, the winter training quarters of the Cubs, and will leave Chicago on Feb. 14.

CARMEN WON'T WEAR GRAY AT PRESENT PAY

P. S. C. Workers Decide Not to Change Uniforms Pending Action on Increase.

St. Louis street car men voted yesterday not to change from the present blue uniform to one of gray on Easter Sunday as was ordered in a recent bulletin issued by the Public Service Co., unless the State Public Service Commission has acted on their demand for a 5-cent an hour wage increase by that time.

At mass meetings attended by about 1500 of the 2500 motormen and conductors employed by the company, it was voted unanimously to retain the blue uniform, specified under the present working agreement with the company, until such time as that agreement is changed by action of the Public Service Commission.

The meetings were called at the request of the majority of the members of the union, who objected to investing $35 in a new gray uniform while the question of a wage increase is still undecided, according to Murray Douglas, president of the union.

"Many of our men have serviceable blue uniforms still to be worn out, and since the existing agreement calls for that type apparel, the men did not see why they should be forced to spend $35 for new clothes at this time," Douglas said.

Douglas added that as soon as a new wage agreement became effective, the men would consent to the change in uniform. The Public Service Commission has under consideration the union's demand for a wage increase and a demand by the Public Service Co. that the wages of all union employees be reduced 5 cents an hour.

Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip of New York City, who is making a tour of 10 cities in the interest of a $2,500,000 endowment fund for the Constantinople Woman's College, of which she is a trustee, is in St. Louis today. Of the endowment fund, $500,000 remains to be raised before July 1.

Mrs. Vanderlip attended a luncheon this noon at the home of Mrs. Frank Mayfield and Mrs. M. L. Wilkinson on McKnight road, and will attend a tea at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the home Mrs. John T. Davis Jr., 47 Portland place. She is the guest of Mrs. Thomas C. Rastelle of 59 Kingsbury place.

9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap

BRUNETTES

AN exquisite, velvety skin is any girl's greatest charm, and for a screen star it is all important, leading motion picture directors say.

"Screen history has proved that the cleverest make-up can't imitate beautiful skin under the glare of the close-up. I don't know a single girl without really lovely skin who has won enough of the public to become a star," says William Beaudine, director for Fox Films.

"A star must always guard the perfection of her skin—the glaring lights of the close-up reveal the slightest unevenness," Myrna Kennedy explains.

The next time you see her in a close-up notice how fine and smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps her skin or Clara Bow's, Bebe Daniels', May McAvoy's. When next you see your favorite screen star, whoever she is, remember that nine out of every ten lovely stars use Lux Toilet Soap for smooth skin.

Indeed, all the great film studios, following these stars' example, have made Lux Toilet Soap the official soap in all dressing rooms.

The exacting screen stars like the fact that this delicately fragrant white soap is made by the French method. "It gives my skin that beautiful smoothness I though only fine French soap could give," Renée Adorée says. You, too, will like its caressing lather that leaves your skin so satin smooth. Use it for the bath, too, and the shampoo, as the screen stars do.

BLONDES

MARION DAVIES, famous for her blonde loveliness, says: "Smooth skin is a great asset. I am delighted with Lux Toilet Soap."

ESTHER RALSTON, blonde Paramount beauty, says, "Lux Toilet Soap is excellent for keeping the skin delightfully smooth."

DOROTHY MACKAILL, First National, guards her beauty carefully. "Lux Toilet Soap is lovely for the skin," she says.

ANNA Q. NILSSON, F. B. O. star, says enthusiastically: "Lux Toilet Soap is a splendid aid in keeping the skin like velvet."

RED HEADS

CLARA BOW, Paramount, so famous for her charm, says: "Lux Toilet Soap is a great help in keeping the skin in perfect condition."

JOAN CRAWFORD, M. G. M., says: "Never have I had anything like Lux Toilet Soap for keeping my skin fresh and smooth."

MERNA KENNEDY, Universal, guards her skin with care. She says: "Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin marvelously smooth."

NANCY CARROLL, Paramount, says: "Lux Toilet Soap is a great aid in keeping one's skin flawless for the all-seeing eye of the camera."

ELEANOR BOARDMAN says: "Lux Toilet Soap is excellent for the very smooth skin a screen star must have."

EVELYN BRENT, Paramount, says: "A star just must have a smooth skin. Lux Toilet Soap is so pleasing and soothing."

MARY BRIAN, Paramount, says: "Lux Toilet Soap is certainly lovely for keeping smooth 'studio skin' in perfect condition."

RENEE ADORÉE, M. G. M., says: "Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin that beautiful smoothness I thought only French soap gave."

Bass Gets a Percentage Increase When Lenard is Selected as His Opponent

When Eddie Anderson's manager, Joe Glazer, declined to go through with his proposed match with Benny Bass at the Coliseum Friday night, Cereby forcing Matchmaker Tippet to schedule Henry Lenard in his stead, St. Louis fight fans received a lucky break. No matter how the wind blows, the Lenard-Bass bout is sure to produce ten times as much action as a Bass-Anderson bout.

Lenard thinks he can whip any featherweight in the world. Here is a partial list of his victims: Joey Sanger, Eddie Shea, Young Montreal, Harry Forbes, Babe Baker, Tommy Ryan, California Joe Lyons, and the 1936 champion of the world, Andre Rouss.

Lenard has never met Bass, although he boxed on the same card with him here. He is one of that species of boxer known as a "sophaw," which means that he boxes with his right hand ex-

the fact that he uses the perplexing southpaw stance and also due to the fact that he is a very capable fighter. Lenard has difficulty in getting on with the 125-pounders. His "end" in the bout with Bass will be comparatively small. If the "gate" runs as high as $6000, Lenard's share will be about $1000.

Manager of Bass, demanded an increase of his percentage when the opponent was changed from Anderson to Lenard, according to

The supporting card on Friday night will include a 10-round bout between Joe Rivers and Claude Wilson; another between Mike Dwyer and Ed McFarland; a 10-round bout between Eddie Goldberg and Johnny Lucas and one other bout.

Base Asses for More Money.
In his only appearance here, Lenard defeated Ehnman Clarke who outweighed him 10 pounds. Clarke has a killing wallop in his right hand but he was never able to put it exactly as he wanted it

Hot Tea Breaks a Cold!

There's a certain kind of tea that breaks up a cold in quick time. It heats dosing yourself with all kinds of medicines. At the first sign of any chill or fever, get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Put a tablespoonful of this Hamburg tea in a sieve, pour a cup of boiling water over it, and drink a cupful at any time. It heats the body, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold of case of grippe at once. Hamburg Breast Tea is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

"KONJOLA WAS THE REMEDY I NEEDED 'IN FIRST PLACE'"

Happy Lady Describes Benefits Derived Through Use of Master Medicine; Relieved of Complications.

To all who suffer, health is worth thousands of dollars. Thousands have been spent for relief — and much of it in a vain and fruitless search. Think, then, what it means to invest, as if in guaranteed security,

ities, but a few dollars in a medicine that is of recognized merit — that has thousands of triumphs over disease, as its foundation. Konjola costs but little and produces much. Konjola brings that warm glow of new, lasting and glorious health — brings relief from ailments that defied and resisted all other medicines and treatments. In fact, Konjola is at the very peak of its powers in obstinate and chronic cases. You are not experimenting when you take Konjola, you are using a medicine of recognized value. Young and old, rich and poor, men and women have testified, over-filling the files of this medicine, that it was the first and only medicine that gave them health. Just a few days ago Mrs. Millicent Eads, 906 Market street, this city, gave this amazing statement to the Konjola Man, who is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, St. Louis, where he is explaining the merits of this super-medicine.

"Konjola was the medicine I needed in the first place, because it was the only medicine that ended four ailments — stomach and kidney disorders, liver trouble and constipation. Of the four, my kidneys gave the greatest misery. My limbs were swollen and sore. Night risings broke up my sleep frequently and gave me a tired, draggy feeling during the day. From the stomach trouble came gas bloating. My liver brought on biliousness and splitting headaches. Constipation simply made these ailments a great deal worse. Try as I might I was unable to gain more than temporary relief. Daily I grew worse, becoming discouraged and disheartened.

"When my condition was at its worst, when hope had fled, I started on Konjola. Even in the face of these odds — this adverse condition — Konjola did not fail — did not even falter. Immediately it went to work, going to the very source, the root, ferent ailments felt before the pawning battle, my organs were strengthened and invigorated, the poisons in my system were eliminated, the different ailments felt before the powers of this wonderful medicine. In a remarkably short time my stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels were in perfect shape. Today they never bother me, and I have glorious health — lasting and sure. I praise Konjola, praise it heartily, and advise all sufferers to give it a trial."

You will be under no obligation when you visit the Konjola Man. His mission is not, primarily, to sell Konjola, but to tell of the accomplishments of this medicine — to help all seekers after health to find their goal. Decide for yourself after you have heard what it has done. It costs nothing and is worth a lot.

The Konjola Man is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, this city, where he is meeting daily the public, explaining and introducing this advanced medicine.

JEWISH ORPHANS' HOME DEDICATION SUNDAY

Four Attractive Buildings Facing Forest Park Complete $300,000 Program.

Four attractive brick buildings, similar in appearance to the private residences that surround them, will be dedicated Sunday afternoon, and the Jewish Orphans' Home will change its address to 6630 Oakland avenue, where a $300,000 building program, started three years ago, has been completed.

Planned after an extensive study of similar homes in the East, the buildings represent the most modern in arrangement, removing the appearance and atmosphere of an institution by following what has become known as the "cottage plan."

Each of the four buildings, placed in a semicircle on a spacious lot facing Forest Park, is different in appearance and design. An administration building and a boys' cottage flank a nursery building and girls' home. A fountain will be installed in the front lawn. A fully equipped playground will be installed on a large lot in the rear.

The administration building includes a hospital for the care of contagious cases, and a dental clinic.

Each building is a complete unit, with kitchen, dining room, study rooms and bedrooms. A synagogue where religious services will be held regularly is a part of the girls' cottage. Each cottage has about 17 rooms, attractively furnished.

The Jewish Orphans' Home, now located at 2117 Lafayette avenue, was acquired in 1919, about 10 years after a society was organized. Forty-four children could be cared for there, 70 may be quartered in the new buildings. The old building has been sold.

A campaign for subscriptions for the new buildings was started in 1926 by Nathan Frank, and a building committee named. Its members are Isadore Mathis, Sam Hamburg Jr., Jacob Rubin, Sam Goldman, Dr. A. A. Margulis, Louis Gollin and Meyer Blocher. The nursery building, furnished by Mrs. Abraham Shank, 17 Arundel place, president of the society, will be dedicated to her.

Major Miller and prominent Jewish churchmen will speak at the dedicatory ceremonies.

CLUB TO HONOR CAULFIELD

Advertising Men Will Make Governor an Honorary Member.

Gov. Caulfield will be inducted into honorary membership in the Advertising Club at a banquet in the Missouri Hotel, Jefferson City, Feb. 15, it was announced yesterday at a club luncheon.

The event will have no political significance, according to C. E. Williams, chairman of the committee planning the banquet, but will symbolize the Advertising Club's desire to co-operate with the Governor in the development of the State. Former Gov. Baker was made an honorary member four years ago.

CHAUFFEUR FOR NEW YORK POLICE HEAD'S WIFE ARRESTED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—While Police Commissioner Whalen was acting as master of ceremonies at the city's greeting to the heroes of the S. E. America yesterday, Mrs. Whalen's chauffeur and car were taken to a police station, leaving her stranded on a chilly Fifth avenue curb.

"My wife's machine was in the wrong," the commissioner said. That was before he had seen Mrs. Whalen.

"It was most annoying," she said. "I had a luncheon appointment and had to go to it on a bus."

The complaint against the chauffeur was for parking less than 25 feet from a corner and disorderly conduct, the latter because he didn't take seriously the traffic officer's command to move the car.

The chauffeur was released on the ground that there was no evidence he was obstructing traffic.

Kills Wife and Himself.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 29.—Richard L. Boggs, 29 years old, a border patrol inspector of the Federal immigration service at San Diego, stabbed his wife to death here yesterday in a hotel room and then killed himself with a revolver. Detectives found a note written in which Boggs said he was dying of an "incurable disease" and was going to take his wife's life because he wanted to "take her with him."

The officers said there was evidence of a desperate struggle, and that Boggs apparently choked his wife with a towel before killing her.

The FORTUNATE WAYFARER

by E. Phillips Oppenheim

INSTALLMENT XXI. OUT OF KET.

"It is customary, Miss Lovell," she said, "to allow your hostess some discretion in the arranging of sets. You have been playing all the afternoon, and I think that you had better rest for a little time."

"Serve!" Miss Lovell said in reply. "I am not tired, but I am a little nervous. Martin, nervous, and flustered, as you know, is the result of his partner's indifference to the result and her own brilliant play, quickly recovered himself. They won the set, 6-3."

"We will play you again from the other side," Blanche proposed. "Unless you're tired, in which case we'll find some other victims. It's my partner's first set and he is improving every minute."

"You are too strong for us," Phillipson grumbled, good-naturedly, "but we'll play the return, of course."

Blanche and Martin won again this time with even greater ease. Afterward, the former deliberately thrust her arm through her partner's and led him to the table under the trees, where most of the young people were gathered.

"How I hate these afternoon drinks," she sighed. "You're all right, Martin. There's whiskey and soda with a lump of ice in it for you. An orange squash for me. Malloves, Gerald," she added, looking across to where he was leaning over Laura's, "come and talk to Mr. Barnes."

There were a few more introductions and every one was very civil. Lady Blanche was a young person who ruled the world of which she was the principal star with a certain amount of vigor, and her attitude toward Martin was unmistakable.

"What about the cricket, Gerald?" she inquired.

"All fixed up," was the cheerful reply. "They're coming over pretty strong, but we haven't a bad team."

"Let me look at the list," Blanche begged, holding out her hand.

He produced a slip of paper from his pocket and handed it to her.

"You have several down here who are not staying in the house," she remarked.

"Can't help that. Human nature is what it is," he replied.

"By the way, don't you play cricket, Mr. Barnes?" Blanche asked, turning toward him.

"Yes, after a fashion."

"Then, of course, you must play in the match," she declared. "Mr. Barnes has been saying in the house off and on for two months."

Gerald, of course he must play before these others."

"Devilish awkward," Gerald objected, frowning. "You see, I've asked them now."

"It doesn't matter about me at all," Martin intervened, "especially as I'm probably leaving tomorrow."

"Nothing of the sort," Blanche insisted, lighting a cigarette. "You're playing in the cricket match. * * * I think I should leave Weston out. If I were you," she added, turning to Gerald, "he's a disagreeable boy."

"What club do you play for, Mr. Barnes?" Gerald inquired grudgingly.

"The Bermudez Wanderers," was the laconic reply.

"There was a gleam of delight in Blanche's eyes. Gerald seemed a little taken aback."

"Can't say that I know the club," he remarked, or its standing, but I really don't see how we can chuck Weston."

vigorating. Unconsciously, it ministered to his self-respect. He dressed for the evening and sent Jewson for a tuxedo with some faint renewal of that spirit of adventure never altogether dormant. In his selection of a restaurant he was swayed by varying impulses. He was conscious of a distinct revulsion of feeling against the haunts of Gerald Garnham and his friends. On the other hand, the thought of the lost expensive and noisier places where he had been accustomed to disport himself in the old days was utterly unattractive. He compromised in favor of a club restaurant which he had recently joined, a place largely patronized by the cinema and the theatrical professions, but with also a leaven of the other world attracted by its excellent cuisine and the shelter of its Bohemianism. Arrived there, he left his coat and hat with the attendant and descended the stairs into the famous bar for a cocktail. He chose the end stool and, having given his order, glanced casually enough at his neighbors. A moment's amazed incredulity was followed by a real start as realization asserted itself. Seated within a few feet of him, side by side and yet apparently ignorant of his coming, were Victor Porle and Solomon Grunt.

Again he felt a re-percussion of that sense of mystery, that interest in these two men which was distinctly tempered with some sort of apprehension. Both were dressed in dinner clothes, well-tailored and well-made, and the other details of their toilettes were in accordance with the fashion of the moment. Both were excellently coiffured: the hand of Victor Porle, resting upon the counter, betrayed the recent attentions of the manicurist. Yet there was something queer about them, some nameless, incomprehensible difference between them and the other loungers.

In the midst of his absorbed speculations they simultaneously recognized him. With great deliberation Victor Porle left his stool, passed for a moment as though he were in the act of attempting to walk a tightrope, and then came around to Martin's side.

"I am glad to see you, son-in-law," he said.

"I'm afraid," Martin replied, "that I don't feel exactly the same way about it."

The newcomer seated himself upon a vacant stool.

"That," he observed, "is unfortunate, but easily understood. We will drink together."

Martin was on the point of indicating his still half-filled glass, but acting upon a sudden resolution he changed his mind.

"Thank you," he replied. "I will take a Martini. What about your friend?"

There seemed to be some sort of perfect understanding between this quietly contrasted pair. Victor Porle merely glanced across and Solomon Grunt, at once approached them. He dragged a stool to Martin's other side.

"We seem to have a knack of meeting you, my young friend," he remarked.

"It appears so," Martin agreed. Victor Porle ordered the drinks. Then he turned toward Martin.

"Where is my daughter?" he demanded.

"She is not with me."

"You are in London alone and so lately married?"

"I am in London alone," Martin acquiesced.

Victor Porle tapped his forehead for a moment with the fingers of his long, avuncular, claw-like hand. Looking at him closely, Martin realized that with his extreme pallor the thin red line of his ancient scar was more than ever prominent.

Nearly Mad With Rheumatic Pains!

OLD ACQUAINTANCES MEET AGAIN.

MARTIN found an unexpected sense of pleasure in his return to his rooms, the services of Jewson, the quietness, the piles of books still waiting to be put in their places, the sense of freedom and well-being in those neatly arranged evening clothes, and of independence instilled by the sight of his well-filled pocketbook. There had come to him in the road back from Norwich a vivid recollection of those former rooms of his in King street, the hard-faced landlady, the iron bedstead, the dingy sitting room with its strip of carpet, still redolent with the odors of past meals, which he shared with other lodgers of unimpeachable manners, a appearance. The contrast between that environment and his present one was marvelously in-

"Nearly every day, especially in damp weather, I suffered terribly from shooting pains and sharp twinges in my arms and legs. Nothing gave me any relief and at times I thought I would go mad. When I tried 'St. Jacob's Oil' it was with no hope at all. The first application brought relief, and I have had perfect comfort since."

Good old "St. Jacob's Oil" certainly does relieve the pains and aches of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuritis, Lumbago and Neuralgia. This soothing, penetrating oil seems to reach right in through the pores and draw out all the pain and ache. And there is no burning of the skin. Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Oil" at your druggist and try it out on any pain, ache, sprain or swelling.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys
When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says: "I sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble."

Very Severe Eczema on Baby's Cheeks. Healed by Cuticura.
"When baby was one month old eczema broke out in pimples on her cheeks. It itched and burned so badly that she scratched all the time. After scratching it formed blisters, and later wet, sore eruptions. It was very severe and she could not sleep. She was cross and fretful and I had to tie her hands to keep her from scratching. Very Severe Eczema on Baby's Cheeks. Healed by Cuticura.
"When baby was one month old eczema broke out in pimples on her cheeks. It itched and burned so badly that she scratched all the time. After scratching it formed blisters, and later wet, sore eruptions. It was very severe and she could not sleep. She was cross and fretful and I had to tie her hands to keep her from scratching. The trouble lasted about four months."

"I tried a good many remedies but they did not do any good. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in three days could see an improvement, and in two weeks she was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Steve Slinka, Rt. 1, Beckett, Ohio, Nov. 17, 1933.

Soap 25c. Ointment 35c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

CALL MONEY RENEWED AT 7, THEN ADVANCED

North American Company and American T. & T. Reach New Peaks in Day's Upward Range.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The stock market was extremely unsettled today as call money rose to 8 per cent for the first time since the middle of the month. A score of important issues lost about 2 to 6 points, but strong buying continued in the utilities, lifting several to new high levels.
The average of utility shares recorded advance of 5.5 points and 10 rails 9 of a point while the average of 50 industrials declined .3 of a point.
Call money renewed at 7 and was lifted to 8 in the early afternoon. Calling of loans was slight, but replacement funds were scarce. The peak of the month-end money strain is not expected until tomorrow, and although the banks are in fairly good positions at the Federal Reserve Bank they appeared reluctant to increase their borrowings to support the market. Fears of 10 per cent money tomorrow became pronounced.
Other unsettling factors were the selling of U. S. Steel, which added 3 points, by holders who were disappointed that no extra dividend was declared yesterday, and uneasiness over the possibility tomorrow of an increase in the Bank of England's discount rate to stop the flow of gold to New York.

News Largely Favorable.
